COUNCIL AGAIN GETS PARKING METER PLAN

Ordinance Gets First Reading At Request of Citizens' Traffic Committee.

URGES 'COMPLETE JOB'

Civic Group Declares Present Problem 'Tends to Choke Business' In City.

Installation of parking meters in downtown Mansfield appeared likely today as city council last night held the first reading of an ordinance calling for installation of the machines.

Under parliamentary procedure the bill must be given two more readings, being rejected or passed on the third reading.

The ordinance which came more or less as a surprise to council members was sponsored by Arthur L. Croak, member of the newly created traffic committee.

It was the second time that the measure has been before council. Early in 1939 the same bill, backed by the Retail Merchants association was given two readings and then was shelved, never receiving final action.

Croak introduced the ordinance on recommendations forwarded to him by the Citizens' traffic committee. A letter from the committee, urging installation of meters was read to council. The committee recommended the machines on a trial basis.

The communication pointed out that the downtown parking problem is "tending to choke business" and urged installation of meters for a "complete job of enforcement."

It stated that council had the co-operation of Richland County Automobile association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' association. All have endorsed the proposal within the past month.

The measure authorizes Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton to establish parking meter zones in the downtown area with parking limitations not to exceed one hour, to provide for installation of the meters and to call for bids on the machines.

ANNENBERG HIT

$8,000,000 Tax Settlement Reported to Court.

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Federal Prosecutor William J. Campbell today informed a U. S. district court that the government has accepted $8,000,000 to settle back income taxes of M. L. Annenberg from 1932 to 1938.

He left to the court the penalty to be imposed on an admitted wilful evasion of more than $1,000,000 tax for one of those years.

Annenberg and Joseph E. Hafner, bookkeeping genius for from 80 to 85 companies which controlled the vast publishing and horse race information empire, appeared for sentencing on their plea of guilty to evasion of Annenberg's tax for 1936.

Mansfield Boy, Butler Girl Win In 'Let's Explore Ohio' Contest

Essays on Schoenbrunn, Rock House Awarded Tour Prizes.

A MANSFIELD high school boy and a Butler school girl were named winners today in the second annual "Let's Explore Ohio" contest and will be "among those present" when the big transcontinental bus starts from Columbus June 23 for a week's tour of Ohio's historical and scenic highpoints.

William S. Sweet, 15, a student at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, is the Mansfield winner, while Frances Worley, 14, of Butler, shared top honors with him.

Sweet, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Sweet, 325 Cline avenue, won his award on a letter written about Schoenbrunn, the restoration of the first white settler's community established in Ohio.

Miss Worley, who is the daughter of Paul Worley, Butler R. D. 2, was awarded first place for her interesting letter on the Rock House, a natural formation of rock in Hocking county.

She is well informed on her subject, having visited the state park several times, where her grandfather, Louis T. Worley, has been head forest ranger for 13 years. Sweet, however, has never seen Schoenbrunn but has been tremendously interested in its history and is familiar with the story of the Moravians who settled there and were exterminated by the Indians, and the rigors of their primitive life. He was a runner-up in last year's "Let's Explore Ohio" contest, missing the trip by a narrow margin.

There were three "honorable mentions" named who wrote interesting and well-composed

It was a case of mutual congratulations when Frances Worley, Butler, and William Sweet, Mansfield, met in The News-Journal office this morning. They were the winners in the "Let's Explore Ohio" contest in Mansfield and will be given a 1,000 mile motor trip over Ohio.

START B. & O. STATION JULY 10

$10,500 to Be Spent on New Depot Instead of $8,000, Officials Reveal.

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad today announced the approximate date on which work would be started on the line's new passenger station here and also increased the amount of money to be spent on the project.

Here for the meeting of the Central Ohio Traffic club at Westbrook yesterday afternoon, officials of the line said the contract for the new station would be let before the end of the month, and said that construction would be started no later than July 10.

In addition, they announced, the railroad will spend $10,500 on the improvement, instead of $8,000 as had been originally estimated.

The officials making the announcement were H. H. Harch, Newark, division superintendent; R. E. Galleher, general freight agent and J. E. Steele, division freight agent.

Inclement weather this spring has been chiefly responsible for the delay in getting work underway, the officials said.

The new station will stand on the location of the present old and dilapidated one, which will be torn down. The new structure is expected to have the general appearance of a modern, $10,000 residence.

B. and O. officials announced plans to construct a new station here last December, following announcement of the Pennsylvania that $75,000 was to be spent on modernizing and renovating the Pennsylvania station, which also serves the Erie.

Income Tax Changes Planned for Defense

5,000,000 More Persons to Pay Under Tentative Program Decided by Congressional Committee.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A new tax program, requiring 5,000,000 more people to pay income taxes and boosting rates on millions more, was tentatively decided on today by house ways and means committee Democrats as congress moved toward a $1,000,000,000 tax bill.

The decision was reached as the result of expansion of the national defense program, with estimated expenditures for army and navy in the next fiscal year estimated at $3,404,000,000.

Under the new tax proposals, exemptions from income tax would be cut from $2,500 to $1,800 for married men and $1,000 to $800 for single persons. These changes, experts informed the committee, will yield $80,000,000 a year.

A permanent increase in the normal income tax rate from four to six per cent on persons with incomes up to $60,000 also was tentatively included.

Committee leaders were considering boosting the excess profits tax or proposing a new so-called "war profits tax" to recapture most of the profits made under the new defense program.

A further increase on income taxes of the wealthy also was studied, but tax experts reported that rates now are so high that little additional revenue can be obtained from this source.

Set back by the administration's new billion dollar defense plan—announced two days after a $656,000,000 tax bill was agreed on—the ways and means committee voted to raise the debt limit from

SWISS IN MESS

Germans Charge Air Battle Occurred In France.

BERLIN — (U.P.) — German sources asserted today that Swiss planes had attacked German planes over French territory and that the matter was being investigated through diplomatic channels.

Authorized German sources asserted that four Swiss planes had been shot down in the encounter and that one German plane was brought down.

Swiss army headquarters previously had announced that two or three German planes had been shot down when they violated Swiss territory and that one Swiss plane was lost.

Republicans Re-Elect Hardy Head of Executive Committee

The Richland county Republican executive committee re-elected Ralph M. Hardy as chairman for another two years at its reorganization meeting last night at party headquarters in the Warner building.

Elected with Hardy were James V. Will, named vice chairman to succeed James E. Warrick, and H. H. Schettler to succeed S. H. Cramer.

At the meeting of the central committee, recently the executive committee was empowered to increase its number from 24 to 31. However only four new members were named last night, Hardy said today. They were Ben Goodenough, Clyde K. Smaltz, A. B. Endly and Robert Pittenger.

Hardy said that the committee had made tentative plans for some of its members to attend the Republican convention in Philadelphia this month, but it has not been definitely determined who will go from Mansfield and the county.

The Democratic executive committee will meet within a week or two, according to John C. O'Donnell, who has served as chairman the past two years. It will be called by G. A. Baer, central committee chairman, re-elected to that post last week after the old line Democrats won a battle over the Davey forces.

The Democratic executive committee is made up of the same number of members as the central committee—92—and each member of the central group can name himself or some one to represent him on the executive committee. Not all members were present at the meeting last week and there are still several committeemen to be named, O'Donnell said today.

Army High Command Gives Secret Report on Fifth Column.

AIR BASES SOUGHT

Allies Form Powder Company In Tennessee Under DuPont Direction.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A secret statement from the army high command on "fifth column" activities in several Latin American countries kept hemisphere defense problems to the fore today in the crush of preparedness considerations.

There was added emphasis on the subject in the declaration of a cabinet member, Secretary Wallace, that "the dictator nations have definite designs" on the New World.

If England and France are conquered," Wallace said in a speech last night, "the Americas will be the next objective."

Reason's for the army's manifest concern over the potentialities of conditions in some parts of the western hemisphere were outlined yesterday in a closed meeting of the house military committee by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

General Marshall, some members said later, named five countries in Latin America where he declared "fifth column" activities were cause for apprehension. An intensification of efforts might be expected, Marshall was quoted, if Great Britain and France appeared certain to be defeated.

Discussion of "fifth column" activities hinged on preparation of a bill that would empower President Roosevelt to mobilize the national guard in case of necessity without congressional aprpoval. The president's request for this authority has drawn the fire of some congressmen.

Marshall, urging the merits of the legislation, said it was needed because there were "dangers that might be serious, specifically with relation to the Panama Canal."

There was a hint yesterday from Chairman Walsh (D.-Mass.) of the senate naval committee that the United States might be negotiating for military bases in Central and South

SHOWERS DUE

And Even Thunder Storms May Cool City Tonight.

This perfect what-is-so-rare-as-a-day-in-June weather will be punctuated with showers and possibly thunder storms tonight with cooler temperatures tomorrow, if the weatherman is right in his predictions.

Yesterday, under cloudless skies, thermometers climbed to 83 and while it was only 80 this noon, there was every indication that the mercury would reach at least 85 again today. The usual drop during the night sent it to 56.

The forecast is for slightly lower temperatures tonight with showers, and "partly cloudy and slightly cooler" tomorrow.

LONDON —(INS)— Plans for the mass evacuation of British children to unspecified points in the Dominions were revealed today as Nazi Germany launched a large-scale offensive against Paris, Le Havre and Cherbourg.

LONDON — Sounds of heavy explosions on the French coast signaled today that Germany's new offensive on the continent was moving close to Britain, and British military experts regarded as "serious" the battle now raging along the banks of the Somme.

The ground shook and windows rattled in southeast coastal towns as heavy explosions on the French coast reminded Britons that German legions had launched a new blitzkrieg.

The Somme offensive was considered by British military experts as "sudden" although for a fortnight there had been general speculation about Germany's next move after the conquest of Flanders.

(INS Staff Correspondent)

PARIS — Nazi Germany's long-awaited "grand offensive" against Paris was launched along a front at least 100 miles along the Somme river today and late this evening all indications pointed to firm defense by Allied troops holding out against successive waves of attacks by infantry and dive-bombers.

Officials described the German artillery and air bombardment as a "veritable deluge", with the Nazis pouring shells and bombs over the great flaming front.

It may be necessary, French spokesmen admitted, for the Allies to concede certain points, but insisted that this "should not be considered alarming."

In a formal statement, the French war office reiterated its contention that comparatively small and minor mechanized units had been thrown into the fray by the attacking Germans.

Military spokesmen made no secret of the fact that a gigantic barrage of artillery fire, followed by infantry lunges and ceaseless attacks by dive-bombers marked the Nazi offensive.

So far as is known, close to a million Germans were in a position to participate in the frontal attack against Paris while at least an equal number of French and British troops stood along

STARTLING: Developments Bring Conflict Closer to U. S.

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—The administration today faced as a realistic possibility what even a few weeks ago seemed a fantastic dream—the chance that Europe's bitter war might move to North American shores

Two of Great Britain's highest spokesmen have, within the last 24 hours, admitted the English motherland might be conquered by Nazi Germany, leaving the dominions—meaning, primarily, Canada—to carry on the war. That would imply the basing of a large part of the British fleet in Canadian waters and the extension of warfare to America's northern neighbor, which President Roosevelt has included under the protective wing of the Monroe doctrine.

Thus the possibility of American involvement in the war by circumstances much more direct than the sending of an expeditionary force to Europe is reluctantly admitted by realistic observers.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address to commons yesterday contained a pungent paragraph that is being closely studied in Washington.

DECIDE TO BUY NEW GARBAGE TRUCK CHASSIS

Councilmen Act to Replace Equipment Damaged In Recent Collision.

With the city forced to replace one of its garbage trucks as the result of a traffic accident recently, city council last night shifted $1,000 in the garbage fund to make the purchase of a new truck chassis.

Said to be an immediate necessity for operation of the garbage department, legislation passed authorized purchase of the new truck without advertising for bids.

The truck was damaged last week when it was involved in a collision on Ashland road near the city limits. Sale of the damaged chassis was authorized for not less than $234.

In addition, council also received a number of petitions. They were ordered to various council committees by President Howard G. Miller for investigation.

A petition from employes in the engineering department requesting pay for time off when disabled was referred to a special committee headed by C. N. Shultz. The committee already has under consideration similar requests from other municipal department employes.

The street committee was given petition from property owners on Elmwood drive requesting that the street be graded and paved between Park drive and West Fourth street. A request was also received to name Parnell drive an alley east of Tracy street running north and south between McPherson and Burns street.

The sewer committee ordered legislation authorizing construction of a sanitary sewer on West Third street at the expense of Atty. George W. Biddle, who requested the improvement.

A claim for $16.50 which he said was for damages to his automobile when it dropped into an open manhole on South Main street six weeks ago, submitted by Leo R. Mertz, 14½ Distl avenue, was referred to the claim committee.

Council also approved payment of a claim for $3.28 to W. E Kline, for repair of a leak in a sewer line.

FORMER GALION RESIDENT DIES

GALION—The body of Charles F. Riblet, 84, was brought to Galion Monday afternoon and interment made in Fairview cemetery. Rev. Robert A. George, rector of Grace Episcopal church, had brief services at the mausoleum.

Mr. Riblet died at his home, 1042 East 171st street, Cleveland, Saturday. He was a member of one of Galion's oldest families, and was born here Sept. 25, 1855. When he was a boy the family moved to Mansfield, but had lived in Cleveland for many years.

He was married to Ida M. Peterson of Cleveland, and she died several years ago. There were eight children born to this union.

BETTE DAVIS, TIRED OF DRAMA, WANTS TO DISPLAY HER ANKLES

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—She didn't say it quite so bluntly, but Bette Davis thinks her public should see more of her legs. To such an end the queen of motion picture dramatic actresses is willing, even anxious, to become a cowgirl or musical comedy dancer—at least for a picture or so.

"One of these days," she reasoned, "they're going to have to cover me up. And if you ask me, that's soon enough."

She spoke her piece perched atop a high stool, a flowing brown dress draped almost to the floor. It's one of her costumes in "All This and Heaven Too," in which she plays a French governess who gets tangled up in the affairs of Charles Boyer.

Bette, in flowing dresses, has been sitting on high stools for some time past. For, in a sense, she has been "typed" in period pictures. Three last year, for example: "The Old Maid," "Juarez" and "Elizabeth and Essex."

She's so serious about having her public see her smile and her trim ankles that there is talk she and John Garfield will be starred in a musical.

END TESTIMONY IN GAS COMPANY LABOR HEARING

Ten Witnesses on Stand Before Examiner Questioned About Ex-Employe's Ouster.

Taking of testimony in a National Labor Relations board case against the Ohio Fuel Gas company was completed yesterday afternoon following a two-day hearing at the courthouse.

Ten witnesses testified in behalf of Alva Crunkilton, former employe of the gas company, who allegedly was discharged in March because of union activities.

Several of the witnesses said they believed Crunkilton was dismissed because he was the organizer of a union which has 36 members among the company's employes at its Pavonia plant.

Presenting seven witnesses, the defendant firm contended that Crunkilton, who worked for the company for seven years, was dismissed because work was slack.

Two charges filed by the United Mine Workers-CIO were heard by Henry J. Kent, Washington, D. C., an NLRB examiner. One charge was concerned with Crunkilton's dismissal and the other with alleged attempts of company officials to discourage union activities on the grounds that "they don't help anybody."

Atty. Max Johnstone of Cleveland represented the labor board at the hearing. Representing the Ohio Fuel Gas company are Attys. William M. Weldon, Mansfield, and Eagleston and Laylin of Columbus.

JUDGE TO RULE ON CONFESSION

Murder Defendant Charges Rough Treatment by Dayton Sheriff.

(By United Press)

BELLEFONTAINE—Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp was asked today to rule if so-called confessions by Donald Slater, 18, accused of the hammer murder of Fred Jenkins, 51, can be admitted as testimony in Slater's first degree murder trial.

Defense Attorney Roy W. Roof told the judge that Slater was abused by Montgomery County Sheriff Phil J. Kloos while the death of Jenkins was being investigated last February.

Roof contended that Slater was in "a state of confusion"" when he made the purported confession and therefore the statements should not be given to the jury. Joan Jenkins, 14, daughter of the slain man, testified Kloos had kicked Slater in jail, and said: "You see, Buddy, it doesn't pay."

Slater, Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, 47, and Merlin Jenkins, 18, son of the dead man, are accused jointly of hammering the 51-year-old Huntsville telegrapher to death in his home last Feb. 1.

Slater is accused of beating Jenkins to death, disposing of his body at Miamisburg, 80 miles away, and then throwing the hammer away on a farm between Troy and Piqua, O. Slater roomed at the Jenkins home and worked in a cafe operated by Mrs. Jenkins.

SEWER PROJECT

Ashland Council Considers $102,000 Extension.

ASHLAND—City council here will study requests of sewer extensions and water lines extensions submitted by property owners, which if put through, would cost $102,000

The requests for the improvements would fill the need of several years' standing, and would also take care of new real estate allotments which have sprung up within the corporation.

It was stated that $14,000 lineal feet of water lines have been asked for to serve individual properties, which would require the city to extend four-inch lines 16,000 feet to reach the requested extensions.

Nearly all of the cost of the project, which would be $54,000 for the sewer extensions and $48,000 for the water lines extensions, would have to be borne on the city, by the need of main water lines and sewer lines to serve the individual extensions.

"Never Tried A Medicine the Equal of Vendol," He Says

Mansfield carpenter gives this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine full credit for relief from dizziness, spots darting before eyes, coated tongue, headaches, and other troubles due to being constipated.

MR. CURT LEYBOLD

"I had been suffering with constipation a long time, which caused a number of troubles, but I never tried any medicine the equal of Vendol, which gave marvelous relief," said Mr. Curt Leybold, well known carpenter and contractor on Route 4, between Mansfield and Ashland.

"This constipated condition made me feel sluggish most of the time. I felt bilious, little spots darted before my eyes, when I'd stoop over I'd feel light-headed and dizzy. My tongue had a brown furry coating, and I had an awful taste in my mouth.

"Following nearly every meal my food turned sour in my stomach, gas filled me up and felt like a lump in my throat. I would be so nervous any sudden noise made me jump, and I passed many a sleepless night.

"Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets gave me the most complete and satisfying relief from constipation I had found, then the indigestion, sour stomach, gas, choking feeling, and heartburn disappeared. All the dizziness, headaches, and tired-out feeling were relieved, and my tongue cleared up. I now enjoy long nights of restful sleep and awaken feeling grand and ready for my daily duties.

"I never tried a medicine the equal of Vendol, so am glad to tell others about it so they, too, may get the same relief."

All leading druggists display and sell Vendol and it is especially recommended here by the Central Drug Store.

ROTARIANS TOLD OF PROGRESS IN PILOT TRAINING

Harrington Says Most Plane Accidents Are Due to Improper Instruction.

Progress in civilian aviation provided material for an interesting talk given at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club by J R (Bud) Harrington, manager of the Mansfield airport and CAA inspector

Mentioning the three branches of aviation. Military, commercial air lines, and civilian aviation Harrington devoted attention to the last of these as the one most likely to bring increasing public interest in flying as a means of individual transportation

The importance of proper training of pilots was stressed by Harrington, who said that a person who is expert in piloting his own ship may be a poor instructor and asserted that a large percentage of accidents are due to improper instruction, ignorance of the student, or violation of safety regulations

Steps toward further standardizing of methods of instruction are being taken by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, it was revealed, and tests for instructors are being made more rigid

"With the right kind of training, and a willingness to comply with all regulations," said Harrington, "piloting a plane is safer than driving a car, under present traffic conditions"

Ruhland Isaly was program chairman of the meeting A short talk on the work being done by the Mansfield dental clinic was given by Mrs Robert D Evans

Next Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club is to be a ladies' night party at Westbrook Country club, for which Richard Fishback is to be program chairman

Japs Erect Monuments for Chinese Dead, Suggest Co-operation.

PEIPING, North China — (AP) — At the suggestion of Prince Chichibu, brother of the Japanese Emperor, war monuments for Chinese war dead will be created side by side with those for Japanese soldiers killed in China, Japanese officials said

Such monuments will be raised in 25 cities throughout the occupied areas, where Japanese-sponsored Chinese regimes have been asked to "co-operate in financing the project

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest It may just decay in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up" Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢ Stubbornly refuse anything else.

RIVER SNAGS HINDER MAIL DELIVERIES

Letter Carrier's Motorboat Sputter's Over 34-Mile Tennessee Route.

DENSON'S LANDING, Tenn —(U.P.)—The man who brings the mail to Denson's Landing is bothered by neither snow nor rain nor heat nor night, but he does worrry about mud flats and snags.

The famed slogan of the postoffice department fails to take into account the problems facing A. F. Crockett, who daily sputters up to the pier in a rickety motorboat at the end of his 34-mile route along the Tennessee river.

Star route No. 27,160 is one of the few remaining water routes in the country. Crockett gets $1,800 yearly for making the deliveries (except on Sundays and holidays) and has to furnish boat, fuel and crew. His crew is John Matthews, son of a Negro slave and native of the river banks.

Each day about noon, depending upon the condition of the river, the Virginia B. pulls into Denson's Landing and John carries the single bag of mail to the postoffice. He returns with the outgoing mail and within a few minutes the boat is on its way back to its Johnsonville base.

On its way up the river it calls at Sycamore, Cuba and Daniel's Landing.

Denson's Landing is only 15 miles from Linden, the county seat, but it takes mail as long as three days to get here. It is taken to Nashville, then sent to Johnsonville to be brought down by the Virginia B. Once safe in town it is delivered by Postmaster Hugh M. Haynes and O. B. DePriest, who carries the single rural route.

But the future looks dark for the mail boat. A reservoir is being built which will force construction of new highways, one of which is intended to come to Denson's Landing. If that happens the mail will come in trucks from larger centers, and the postoffice itself may be abandoned.

But the Virginia B. doesn't worry about that. She keeps plugging along up and down the river, dodging snags as well as she can. She lives up to the spirit of the postoffice's slogan, even though the circumstances are different.

AUTHORIZE TROY WEED MOWING

Commissioners Order Force Account Action as Bidder Declines.

County commissioners today had authorized mowing of weeds along Troy township roads by force account after Chester Morgan, who had been awarded the mowing contract, declined it.

The county road department will handle the mowing at a cost not to exceed $308.75, under the commissioners' order.

Excepting Hermits

HERMITS are people who think two's a crowd.

They live in caves or huts, wear long gray beards and eat everything from berries to nuts. They don't, as a rule, buy anything.

Self-respecting hermits spend most of their time meditating, contemplating and talking to themselves. Their minds are hermit-ically sealed to anything going on in the world. In fact, what really puts hermits in a class by themselves is that they don't care a hang about the news.

But for everyone excepting hermits, news is a vital necessity of everyday life. Since the day Eve told Adam about the apple, news has been the leading topic of conversation all day long.

And today the craving for the news is stronger than ever before . . . because never before has the individual's welfare and happiness been so intimately affected by events at home and abroad.

That's why your daily newspapers draw a larger and more intensely interested audience . . . day after day . . . than any other medium. And that, in turn, is the fundamental reason why your advertising in newspapers inevitably hits harder, works faster and brings more immediate results.

DECIDE TO BUY NEW GARBAGE TRUCK CHASSIS

Councilmen Act to Replace Equipment Damaged In Recent Collision.

With the city forced to replace one of its garbage trucks as the result of a traffic accident recently, city council last night shifted $1,000 in the garbage fund to make the purchase of a new truck chassis.

Said to be an immediate necessity for operation of the garbage department, legislation passed authorized purchase of the new truck without advertising for bids.

The truck was damaged last week when it was involved in a collision on Ashland road near the city limits. Sale of the damaged chassis was authorized for not less than $284.

In addition, council also received a number of petitions. They were ordered to various council committees by President Howard G. Miller for investigation.

A petition from employes in the engineering department requesting pay for time off when disabled was referred to a special committee headed by C. N. Shultz. The committee already has under consideration similar requests from other municipal department employes.

The street committee was given petition from property owners on Elmwood drive requesting that the street be graded and paved between Park drive and West Fourth street. A request was also received to name Parnell drive an alley east of Tracy street running north and south between McPherson and Burns street.

The sewer committee ordered legislation authorizing construction of a sanitary sewer on West Third street at the expense of Atty. George W. Biddle, who requested the improvement.

A claim for $16.50 which he said was for damages to his automobile when it dropped into an open manhole on South Main street six weeks ago, submitted by Leo R. Mertz, 14½ Distl avenue, was referred to the claim committee.

Council also approved payment of a claim for $3.28 to W. E. Kline, for repair of a leak in a sewer line.

FORMER GALION RESIDENT DIES

GALION—The body of Charles F. Riblet, 84, was brought to Galion Monday afternoon and interment made in Fairview cemetery. Rev. Robert A. George, rector of Grace Episcopal church, had brief services at the mausoleum.

Mr. Riblet died at his home, 1042 East 171st street, Cleveland, Saturday. He was a member of one of Galion's oldest families, and was born here Sept. 25, 1855. When he was a boy the family moved to Mansfield, but had lived in Cleveland for many years.

He was married to Ida M. Peterson of Cleveland, and she died several years ago. There were eight children born to this union.

Ohio Executives Gather at Traffic Club's Outing

Approximately 200 men gathered at the Westbrook Country club yesterday afternoon for the Central Ohio Traffic club's annual outing and golf tournament. Following the tourney, winners were presented prizes at a dinner held in the clubhouse at 7 p. m. R. E. Woodruff, Cleveland, president of the Erie Railroad company presented the prizes and George W. Stephens, president of Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, was toastmaster. The outing marks one day of the year when the members and their guests forget business and gather to test their golf fame. The top photo shows a group of members resting in the shade of a canopy. They are, left to right, Russell Alger, George Swineford, former president of the club; Grover Curran, Toledo; and R. M. Boffenmyer, Ashland, president of the club. Center photo shows a bit of golf action. R. H. Woodruff, Cleveland, president of the Erie railroad, tees off. Watching, left to right are L. M. Leggett, Galion, president of the Galion Metallic Vault company; A. C. Rhodes, secretary, Tappan Stove company, and J. L. Connors, vice president of the Galion Iron Works.

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—She didn't say it quite so bluntly, but Bette Davis thinks her public should see more of her legs. To such an end the queen of motion picture dramatic actresses is willing, even anxious, to become a cowgirl or musical comedy dancer—at least for a picture or so.

"One of these days," she reasoned, "they're going to have to cover me up. And if you ask me, that's soon enough."

She spoke her piece perched atop a high stool, a flowing brown dress draped almost to the floor. It's one of her costumes in "All This and Heaven Too," in which she plays a French governess who gets tangled up in the affairs of Charles Boyer.

Bette, in flowing dresses, has been sitting on high stools for some time past. For, in a sense, she has been "typed" in period pictures. Three last year, for example: "The Old Maid," "Juarez" and "Elizabeth and Essex."

She's so serious about having her public see her smile and her trim ankles that there is talk she and John Garfield will be starred in a musical.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz.—(U.P.)—A one-woman campaign to put ties around the necks of college boys at Arizona State Teachers college isn't getting anywhere. Mrs. Margaret "Mother" Hanley, head of the dining hall for 30 years, first tried threats.

Then, she collected several dozen ties and hung them at the dining hall entrance, where they could be grabbed on the run. None got used. So Mother Hanley gave up.

END TESTIMONY IN GAS COMPANY LABOR HEARING

Ten Witnesses on Stand Before Examiner Questioned About Ex-Employe's Ouster.

Taking of testimony in a National Labor Relations board case against the Ohio Fuel Gas company was completed yesterday afternoon following a two-day hearing at the courthouse.

Ten witnesses testified in behalf of Alva Crunkilton, former employe of the gas company, who allegedly was discharged in March because of union activities.

Several of the witnesses said they believed Crunkilton was dismissed because he was the organizer of a union which has 36 members among the company's employes at its Pavonia plant.

Presenting seven witnesses, the defendant firm contended that Crunkilton, who worked for the company for seven years, was dismissed because work was slack.

Two charges filed by the United Mine Workers-CIO were heard by Henry J. Kent, Washington, D. C., an NLRB examiner. One charge was concerned with Crunkilton's dismissal and the other with alleged attempts of company officials to discourage union activities on the grounds that "they don't help anybody."

Atty. Max Johnstone of Cleveland represented the labor board at the hearing. Representing the Ohio Fuel Gas company are Attys. William M. Weldon, Mansfield, and Eagleston and Laylin of Columbus.

JUDGE TO RULE ON CONFESSION

Murder Defendant Charges Rough Treatment by Dayton Sheriff.

(By United Press)

BELLEFONTAINE — Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp was asked today to rule if so-called confessions by Donald Slater, 18, accused of the hammer murder of Fred Jenkins, 51, can be admitted as testimony in Slater's first degree murder trial.

Defense Attorney Roy W. Roof told the judge that Slater was abused by Montgomery County Sheriff Phil J. Kloos while the death of Jenkins was being investigated last February.

Roof contended that Slater was in "a state of confusion"" when he made the purported confession and therefore the statements should not be given to the jury. Joan Jenkins, 14, daughter of the slain man, testified Kloos had kicked Slater in jail, and said: "You see, Buddy, it doesn't pay."

Slater, Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, 47, and Merlin Jenkins, 18, son of the dead man, are accused jointly of hammering the 51-year-old Huntsville telegrapher to death in his home last Feb. 1.

Slater is accused of beating Jenkins to death, disposing of his body at Miamisburg, 80 miles away, and then throwing the hammer away on a farm between Troy and Piqua, O. Slater roomed at the Jenkins home and worked in a cafe operated by Mrs. Jenkins.

Get Highest Rank In Scouting

Robert and Tom Sutter, Shelby brothers, left and right above, last night became the first Boy Scouts in the Johnny Appleseed area ever to receive 51 merit badges, when they were presented the Silver-Silver Eagle palm at an area court of honor, held in the Elks home. The palms were presented the brothers for earning 30 merit badges over the required 21 necessary to become an Eagle Scout, thus advancing as high as they can in the Boy Scout movement. Tom is 16 and Robert, 19. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sutter.

SEWER PROJECT

Ashland Council Considers $102,000 Extension.

ASHLAND—City council here will study requests of sewer extensions and water lines extensions submitted by property owners, which if put through, would cost $102,000.

The requests for the improvements would fill the need of several years' standing, and would also take care of new real estate allotments which have sprung up within the corporation.

It was stated that $14,000 lineal feet of water lines have been asked for to serve individual properties, which would require the city to extend four-inch lines 16,000 feet to reach the requested extensions.

Nearly all of the cost of the project, which would be $54,000 for the sewer extensions and $48,000 for the water lines extensions, would have to be borne on the city, by the need of main water lines and sewer lines to serve the individual extensions.

UP FOR TAX SALE

Three Pieces of Property In City Go Under Hammer.

Three Mansfield properties, valued at $400, will be offered at sheriff's sale Saturday morning on delinquent tax judgments amounting to $867.

Located on First avenue and Monroe street, the lots are owned by Gisselle Mohler and others. One property was appraised at $300, another at $75, and the third at $25. They will be sold to provide partial payment of a judgment obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb.

"Never Tried A Medicine the Equal of Vendol," He Says

Mansfield carpenter gives this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine full credit for relief from dizziness, spots darting before eyes, coated tongue, headaches, and other troubles due to being constipated.

MR. CURT LEYBOLD

"I had been suffering with constipation a long time, which caused a number of troubles, but I never tried any medicine the equal of Vendol, which gave marvelous relief," said Mr. Curt Leybold, well known carpenter and contractor on Route 4, between Mansfield and Ashland.

"This constipated condition made me feel sluggish most of the time. I felt bilious, little spots darted before my eyes, when I'd stoop over I'd feel light-headed and dizzy. My tongue had a brown furry coating, and I had an awful taste in my mouth.

"Following nearly every meal my food turned sour in my stomach, gas filled me up and felt like a lump in my throat. I would be so nervous any sudden noise made me jump, and I passed many a sleepless night.

"Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets gave me the most complete and satisfying relief from constipation I had found, then the indigestion, sour stomach, gas, choking feeling, and heartburn disappeared. All the dizziness, headaches, and tired-out feeling were relieved, and my tongue cleared up. I now enjoy long nights of restful sleep and awaken feeling grand and ready for my daily duties.

"I never tried a medicine the equal of Vendol, so am glad to tell others about it so they, too, may get the same relief."

All leading druggists display and sell Vendol and it is especially recommended here by the Central Drug Store.

Braves Lose to Lima Before 1,400; Play Two Tilts Today

Cleveland's Pitchers Make Tribe Threat

Feller, Milnar and Smith Sport Better Record Than Cincinnati's Top Tossers.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

AS LONG as everyone is certain the New York Yankees are going straight to their fifth consecutive American league pennant, it may seem wasted time to consider Cleveland's improved Indians.

But a team with all the sterling qualities of the Tribe deserves to get a word in edgewise.

The Indians were the only one of the American league leaders to improve their position yesterday, splitting a doubleheader with the Washington Senators, 2-7 and 3-2. This mediocre feat brought them within half a game of the pace-making Boston Red Sox and perhaps served as a hint of a rising power in the junior circuit.

The tip-off on the Tribe's position lies in the record of their pitchers. Lefty Al Smith, rescued from the minors this spring, got credit for the victory in the nightcap to bring his chart to five victories and no defeats. Al Milnar, another lefthander, has won seven and lost one. Bob Feller, the nonpareil, has won eight and lost two.

* * *

Not even the Cincinnati Reds, supposedly with the best balanced pitching staff in the majors, can offer three such top-notch marks.

* * *

And pitching may mean the difference between Cleveland and Boston. The Red Sox are renowned sluggers. But the Indians are matching them. The combination of Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack is nothing short of miraculous and Rollie Hemsley has settled down to be one of the best catchers in baseball.

Mel Harder, who could make the club go higher, had his ears pinned back again yesterday in the first game as the Senators rallied for five runs in the fourth.

The Red Sox were stopped 5-3 as the St. Louis Browns ended a seven-game losing streak.

The Yankees' parade was detoured by the lefthanded slants of Chicago's Ed Smith and a 12-hit onslaught topped by Joe Kuhel's tenth and eleventh homers of the season. The score was 7-3

The third-place Detroit Tigers also were stopped, 8-6, at Philadelphia after getting four runs in the first frame.

The Cincinnati Reds skidded to a 5-4 defeat at the hands of the New York Giants and lost a game of their lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 10-1 in a night game, scoring five runs in the first when Pete Coscarart hit a home run with two on. Vito Tamulis went the route expertly, although Joe Medwick hit "five for five" including three doubles.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Pirates roused out of their lethargy under the lights to crush the Boston Bees 14-2 behind the five hit hurling of Joe Bowman.

* * *

The Chicago Cubs amassed 15 hits in thumping the Phillies 12-6.

Hogan at National Open Site

Nelson Sees Chance to Repeat 'Pretty Fair'

By JOE MORTON

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Impressed but not awed by the practice performances of several of his fellow journeymen of golf, Defending Champion Byron Nelson today sized up his chance of repeating in the National Open championship starting tomorrow and found them "pretty fair."

The pleasant Texan's 71 yesterday failed to draw the gallery attention from Ben Hogan's third consecutive sub-par round, but he expressed himself as well-satisfied.

"I had some good shots and a few bad ones," he explained, "but I'm finding myself in pretty good shape. Another day of practice here and I'll be set to go. Yes, I think my chances of winning again are pretty fair."

* * *

Nelson's modest optimism was shared by many of his fellow professionals although a sizable number appeared set on Ralph Guldahl, title winner in 1937 and 1938, as the "man to beat." Others were ready to put their chips on Sam Snead and the easy favorite among the spectators was Hogan, intense and determined, with consecutive practice scores of 68, 71 and 70.

* * *

Hogan remained grouped with Snead and Jimmy Demaret at the shortest prevailing odds of 6 to 1 and after collecting his 70, two under regulation figures, put in several hours of hard work on the practice fairway. Snead and Demaret were among many who did not attempt to keep an accurate count of strokes while tuning up.

Guldahl, confident in knowledge of the 6,933-yard course born of several week's consistent practice, turned in a 71.

Long Bar Takes Lead In Class 'A' Golf Race

Defeats Rivals By 4-1 Count to Break Tie; Al Kushin Hits Par-Busting 33.

By GEORGE SATTLER

LONG BAR'S foursome battled their way into first position in The News-Journal Class "A" golf league last night at Possum Run, to break the four-way tie which existed following last week's matches.

Led by Carl Kushin, who copped a par 36, the Long Barmen rolled up four points to Greystone's one, sending them into a three-way tie for the cellar position.

Al Kushin, No. 1 man for the Mansfield Athletic Supply club, whipped out a 33 in a match with Pete Linster of the Richland Printers to register the lowest score made in the league this season. Kushin's 33 is three under par and two strokes above the course record of 31.

* * *

Other scores yesterday were Mansfield Athletic Supply 2, Richland Printing 1; Yuncker Brothers 2; Barnes & Schmid Tires 0; Sloan's Drugs 2, and Oaks club 0.

* * *

Other low scores yesterday were made by L. Deley with a 37, J. Carr with a 38, and C. Wiseman, F. Vild and G. Hanawalt with 39's.

Pandas Win First Game at Fairground; Club Meets Fostoria.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WITH approximately 1,400 spectators looking on—the largest gathering of the season—the Mansfield Braves last night were smothered by the second-place Lima Pandas, 13 to 5, under the arcs at the Fairground and fell three and a half games behind the top berth in the Ohio State league title race.

* * *

Mansfield again showed weakness in its pitching department, but that was not the principal reason the club suffered its worst defeat of the season in the home wigwam.

* * *

Without the services of a first-string catcher, Manager Dewey Stover signed Ralph Hogan late yesterday, but the youth, who came here from Flint, Mich., in the Michigan State league, did not live up to expectations.

Lima, in chalking up its initial win in the Mansfield park, is believed to have set a new league record for base stealing. The Pandas stole 12 bases on Hogan and practically had everything their own way.

Mansfield swings into its first doubleheader of the season at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. today. The Braves play Fostoria again at 8:15 p. m. Bob Arnold, right-hander, and Bill Scotty, a new recruit, are expected to draw the mound assignments.

The only highlight in the Braves' setback was the hitting of Stover. The Braves' chief got "four for five" including a pair of doubles.

George Laurila started on the hill and held the Pandas in check the first two frames, but then it happened.

Lima punched over five tallies in the third, added two in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth to turn the contest into a one-sided affair.

Laurila, seeking his second win in five games, was jerked by Stover in the fourth. "Odie" Van Nostrand took over, but his slants weren't mystifying to the Pandas, who were fighting to retain their runner-up spot.

Probably the most satisfying thing to Stover and the fans who witnessed the affray was the defensive play of the Mansfield infield. Howard Beals, shortstop, and Al Hundemer, second baseman, were particularly outstanding.

A feature of the club's play was the double play in the eighth. Harry Seigbert fielded the ball back of first, tossed to Beals at second, and the shortstop rifled it back to first, in time to get the runner. The play drew a nice round of applause.

* * *

Lima came through with a neat double play in the sixth. With Van Nostrand on first and Hogan on third, Hundemer fanned, but George Weigel, Lima catcher, dropped the ball.

* * *

Hundemer, thinking he had a chance of beating the catcher's throw to first started down the baseline and Van Nostrand set sail for second. The Mansfield pitcher reached second, but when the umpire waved Hundemer automatically out, Van Nostrand started back to first and Crum took the throw from Weigel and tagged him out.

Seeking to overtake the runner-up Pandas, Mansfield tallied once in the first to knot the score, but after the winners went ahead in the third they couldn't keep up the pace.

Mansfield broke into the scoring column again in the fifth with three tallies and added its last run in the sixth.

The contest was played before a Mansfield Retail Merchants' association employe gathering. Joe C. Hartline, club president, and other club directors were impressed by the fine turnout.

Dick Otto, rookie righthander from Madogar, O., was released by the Braves yesterday. Hartline announced early today. Frank Kress, another moundsman, has been suspended by the club.

Blues Drop Out of Lead

Lose to Louisville Club By 2-to-0 Score.

The western clubs of the American association are off to a successful start, generally speaking, in their second invasion of the east, but this doesn't apply to Kansas City.

* * *

The Blues not only lost their initial game of the trip to Louisville, 2-0, but also fell out of the league lead by a margin of two percentage points.

* * *

Home runs by Winegarner and Criscola gave Toledo an early 4-1 lead over Minneapolis, but the invaders soon found the range to win easily, 11 to 6, and stepped into first place.

Milwaukee took a tight battle from Indianapolis, 4 to 3.

Stops Nats In Nightcap; Dobson Gets First Start Today.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Manager Oscar Vitt crossed his fingers and gave Joe Dobson his first starting chance today against the Senators, after the Tribe split a doubleheader yesterday.

The Tribe's pilot then emitted a yelp for help in rounding up pitchers to do battle on the Indian mound.

"We need pitching strength immediately if the Indians are to stay in the pennant race," Vitt told C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Cleveland club. "Sacrifice some of our reserve strength in other positions, if necessary, but bolster our pitching staff."

* * *

The cry was expected to send Slapnicka on a scouting tour of minor league clubs and bring negotiations with other American league clubs before the June 15 deadline for trades.

* * *

Dobson will oppose Walter Masterson as the Indians meet the Nats in the third of their four-game series.

Yesterday's victory in the twin bill brought the Indians within a half game of the Boston Red Sox, league leaders who lost to St. Louis.

But Mel Harder failed to recapture his winning ways, and the Senators pounded him and three other hurlers for 15 hits and a 7 to 2 victory in the opener. The Indians took the second game, 3 to 2, behind the pitching of Al Smith, left hander who kept his record intact by winning his fifth straight—although he didn't finish.

Bob Feller relieved Smith in the ninth after the Nats got an unearned run, but the veteran southpaw shut Washington out for seven innings and got two hits, one of them scoring Ray Mack. In winning, Al was charged with 11 hits while the Tribe collected nine off Joe Haynes and Rene Monteagudo.

Redlegs Collect 11 Hits

Defeat Marks Second Time King Carl Has Beaten Leaders.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — Their National league lead trimmed to one game, the Reds awaited the cover of darkness tonight for their second encounter of a two-game series with the third-place Giants.

On the shoulders of Junior Thompson, with the Rhinelanders appearing under the lights for the first time this season, rested the responsibility of avenging a 5-4 New York triumph yesterday which cut a game from the distance between first and third positions.

* * *

Thompson, who hopes his recent defeat of the Bees broke a losing streak, is after his seventh victory, compared to four defeats. Harry Gumbert, who has an impressive 5-2 record, was called by the fast moving Giants.

* * *

The Giants' celebrated Bill Terry's eighth anniversary as a field general by pouncing on Whitey Moore for three runs in the first inning. They loaded the bases with a walk and two singles. Mel Ott waited out his 30th base on balls and Babe Young singled, scoring two more runs.

Milburn Shoffner and Elmer Riddle checked the merry-go-round, but the Reds couldn't overcome the early advantage, and the Giants kept coming.

* * *

The Reds collected a run in the first. A single and Mike McCormick's double counted another in the fifth. Billy Myers connected for a homer with one on in the eighth.

* * *

Hubbell allowed 11 hits, the same number as given the Giants.

Star Suffers Gun Wounds

Henry Giles, Toledo Tackle, Critically Injured.

TOLEDO — (AP) — Henry Giles, jr., 21, of Newark, star University of Toledo football tackle, was in a critical condition today in Toledo hospital, suffering from four gunshot wounds.

* * *

Edward Deangelo, safety director, said the wounds were inflicted by James Craig Watson, 33, a former university football player, in front of the University stadium last night. Both Giles and Watson are Negroes.

* * *

A blood transfusion was given Giles at 6 a. m. in an effort to save his life. He is shot in both arms, stomach, and neck.

His alleged assailant, who told police he is the editor of the Toledo Voice, a Negro newspaper, is held on suspicion in Mercy hospital. He arrived there with his father, James F. Watson for treatment for a possible skull fracture, head and face cuts. He told attendants he was injured in a fight.

Jealousy over attention by Giles to a former sweetheart of Watson is believed by police to have prompted the shooting, Deangelo said.

Dizzy Out to See If He Can Be 'Taught' to Pitch Again

CHICAGO —(INS)— Dizzy Dean, who contends he became a great major league pitcher just by picking up a ball and throwing it, today set out to discover whether he now can be "taught" to pitch in the minors.

* * *

Dean, reduced to the status of a second rate hurler by a mysterious arm ailment which developed soon after he was purchased by the Chicago Cubs from the St. Louis Cardinals three years ago for $185,000 and three players, has been released by the Cubs under option to the Tulsa club in the Texas league.

* * *

In Tulsa, where he will work under the $10,000 salary paid him by the Cubs, Dean will be guided by Dutch Reuther, former big league southpaw and now a Cubs' scout. Reuther, according to Cubs officials, will work with Dean in the latter's attempt to develop a new sidearm style of pitching in place of the over-arm speedball motion which brought him fame.

Recently, Dean's arm was examined at the John Hopkins hospital, and the pitcher was told he would have to find a new style of pitching if he ever hoped to become an effective moundsman again.

* * *

"Down there in the Oklahoma heat," said Dean before his departure with Mrs. Dean by auto today, "I'll be trying out the new side-arm throwing under ideal conditions. I'm sure I can work something out and come back strong."

* * *

The Bruins settled another pitching problem yesterday by announcing the indefinite suspension of Clay Bryant, also a hurler with a permanently sore arm.

Geiger Hurls One Hit Game

Wemco Pitcher Leads Tinkeys to 3 to 0 Victory.

Allowing only one hit in nine innings, Geiger, Wemco's star hurler, led his team mates to a 3 to 0 victory over the Tinkey Lumber team yesterday at Liberty park diamond in a Y. M. C. A. Independent "A" league contest.

* * *

At the same time, the Alta Lumber outfit shut out the All State Freights by handing them a 9 to 0 trouncing at the North Lake park diamond, and the Wesco club dropped a 9 to 4 decision to the Safety Cabs in the other Independent league contests last night.

* * *

Out of the 29 men who faced Geiger, only Metasavage, Tinkey centerfielder, managed to reach first. Geiger also struck out nine opposing batters.

PAM— When Crooks Fall Out! By A. W. Brewerton

BACK TO COL. CAREY'S OFFICE
SH-H-H! DON'T TALK!
Y'HAVEN'T GOT A THING ON ME — DAN WILD IS A CRIMINAL RACKETEER! HIS ACCUSATION OF ME DOESN'T MEAN A THING! — THE KIDNAPPING WAS ALL HIS IDEA, THE DIRTY DOUBLE-CROSSING CROOK!
IN SPITE OF HIS LAWYER'S EFFORTS, GARET HARDESTY'S FURY DRIVES HIM COMPLETELY HAYWIRE, AS DAVID HOPED IT MIGHT! - THE SUPPOSED ACCUSATION OF BIG DAN, TOGETHER WITH REALIZATION HE HAS LOST THE LEASE, HAS UNBALANCED HIM!
WILL YOU SIGN A STATEMENT TO THAT EFFECT?
SURE I WILL! I'LL FIX THAT THUG!!
OH, HOW HAPPY I WAS TO HEAR DAVID'S VOICE! WHEN THE CRASH CAME, I FELT A TERRIFIC PAIN WHEN MY HEAD HIT SOMETHING — THEN ALL WENT BLACK, TILL, IN A SORT OF DREAM, I HEARD DAVID — AND WAS IN HIS ARMS!
AT DETECTIVE HEADQUARTERS, DAVID FINDS LIEUTENANT MILLER.
WE GOT YOUR MAN, BIG DAN, ALL RIGHT, GORDON!
GOOD! — I'VE JUST BROUGHT IN HARDESTY — I WANT T'GET THEM TOGETHER — BUT I'D LIKE TO HAVE THE D.A. IN ON THEIR ACCUSATIONS OF EACH OTHER!

MARKET WILTS ON REPORT OF GERMAN DRIVE

Traders Pessimistic After Hearing of New Hitler Blitzkrieg Attack.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Shares wilted along the length of Wall Street today as pessimistic traders found only cause for more pessimism in the reports from the French battle front.

Leaders on the downturn included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas, United Aircraft, Martin, Owens-Illinois, DuPont, Westinghouse, American Woolen and International Paper.

The movements in steels, metals and wools was exactly opposite to earnings reports and short-range prospects, indicating the market's complete absorption in the European struggle.

Bonds and commodities fell off, with rubber and hides among the hardest hit.

The magazine Iron Age stated that "further gains in steel and pig iron production are likely."

With virtually all attention centered on Europe, marketmen noted only casually the rise of more than 10 per cent in the United States' production of electric power last week, despite its indication of increased industrial production.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Give Annual Fete—The Brinkerhoff Parent-Teacher association will give its annual lawn fete on the school grounds tomorrow night, with games and refreshments. W. J. Bishop is general chairman.

Confer Degree—The Entered Apprentice degree will be conferred on five candidates at a special meeting of Venus Lodge No. 152, F. & A. M., at 7 p. m. today at the Masonic temple.

Answer False Alarm—Firemen from company No. 1, called to Brinkerhoff school last night by residents in the vicinity who observed smoke in the building, said they found the furnace causing the smoke in the building.

Forfeits Bond—Grady Nease, Huntington, W. Va., forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in municipal court today to answer charges of reckless driving. He was arrested last night on Lexington avenue.

Ill in Lorain — Hugh Martin, auditor of The News-Journal, is critically ill in St. Joseph's hospital, Lorain, with a streptococcic infection of the throat and bronchial pneumonia. Martin, whose home is in Lorain, was taken ill Monday night.

Spark Plugs Stolen—Sheriff E. P. Long today was investigating the theft of spark plugs valued at $25 from the Weirick filling station in Lincoln Heights. The burglar broke a window to get into the station.

Return From Trip—Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, 296 West Fourth street, returned last night after visiting their son, Russell Bailey, and family at Wilmington, Del. On the return trip they stopped over for the Devon horse show at Devon, Pa.

Taken Into Custody—Floyd Kiley, 33½ Buckingham street, was arrested this morning on an order from Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, for violation of his probation. Kiley was placed on probation on a non-support charge some time ago.

Faces Charge—Paul Forsythe, Olivesburg road, will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of being a suspicious person. Police said they arrested him last night in the vicinity of Newman and Wayne streets and that he could not give an account of himself.

Driver Fined—Pleading guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of unsafe driving, John M. Korn, Galion, was fined $25 and costs. Police said they arrested him on Park avenue west while he was driving at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

NEW PRINCIPAL

ALLIANCE — (AP) — Byron E. Saffellb, junior high school principal, was named high school principal yesterday to succeed J. E. Vaughn, who resigned after 33 years.

letters, and who serve as alternates in case anything happens that one or both of the winners can't make the trip. They were Eileen Schuler, 151 North Walnut street; Jean Wentz, 478 West Fourth street; and Nancy Lou Giles, 589 Crescent road.

The contest, sponsored by The News-Journal and the Standard Oil company, was inaugurated last year, with the purpose of arousing more interest in the scenic and historical points of interest in Ohio.

Two free motor trips for the best written letter on "The Most Interesting Spot in Ohio," were awarded. The contest was open to boys and girls of the city and county between the ages of 12 and 15 inclusive. Judges were Floyd Dent, Ruth Duckwald and Katharine Hartman.

The tour starts at noon on Sunday, June 23 at Columbus and ends the following Saturday. The trip will be 1,000 miles with stop-overs at good hotels and interesting spots. There will be a lecturer, guide and chaperons.

FUND GROWS

BUCYRUS — Red Cross contributions for war relief jumped to $628 over the week-end, Chairman John A. Davis reported today.

Still approximately $1,370 short of the $2,000 goal, Davis urges that contributions be made as soon as possible.

TOO MUCH? SOLD

ERIE, Kans. — (AP) — Emery Knox, assessor, glanced at the meat cutting machine in a grocery store and entered its value, on his book, at $20. "That's too much," said the grocer.

"I'll give you that for it," Knox said, promptly.

"Sold," said the grocer, just as promptly.

New Dealers Say FDR Would Resign After War Ends

SECOND PLACE CHOICE STIRS MUCH ACTIVITY

Report Arouses Speculation On Running-Mate Picked By President.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — High New Dealers are informing Democratic leaders of congress today that President Roosevelt will accept a third term nomination and, if re-elected, resign the presidency as soon as the second World war ends.

This report, widely circulated on Capitol Hill, explains the sudden Democratic activity over the second-place nomination. If true, it means that the next Democratic vice presidential nominee is to become president of the United States in event that Mr. Roosevelt is reelected and the war ends in less than four years.

The Roosevelt "president-for-less-than-a-year" report has provoked conflicting rumors over his choice of a running-mate. Last week, there was a brief flurry of talk over a harmony ticket of Roosevelt and Garner, with the president pictured as ready to accept Vice President John N. Garner for another term.

The Garner rumor, however, died by the wayside when the New Dealers brought out the report that Mr. Roosevelt would not serve out a third term if reelectetd. The New Dealers immediately said Garner was too old for the post and that the president desired a much younger man and a New Dealer as his running-mate. This led to speculative reports that Mr. Roosevelt favored a rather long list of individuals, who are rather young and New Dealers.

This latest Roosevelt rumor also lessens the boom for Secretary of State Cordell Hull. For months past, the New Dealers have asserted publicly and privately that Hull was Mr. Roosevelt's choice as his successor in the White House. When their talk changed to a third term, the New Dealers said Hull was Roosevelt's choice as his running mate. Now, the New Dealers say Hull—like Garner—is too old and that a younger man is desired.

The "younger man" list is rather long. It is headed, for the moment, according to the rumors, by Associate Justice William O. Douglas. It included Rep. Sam Rayburn, (Tex.), house majority leader, Sen. James Byrnes (S. C.), administration spokesman in the senate; Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt; Senate Majority leader Alben Barkley (Ky.), and Rep. Martin Dies (Tex.), who heads the house committee investigating un-American activities.

Behind these rumors, some high New Dealers are trying from day to day to get Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (Mont.) to agree to run with Roosevelt on a third term ticket. Thus far, Wheeler has insisted that he is interested only in being reelected to the senate.

Observers hold that Wheeler would be the strongest running-mate from a political standpoint. He is an outstanding Liberal and has a nationwide following. Among the others, Dies and McNutt are best known to the country.

All these rumors, however, get no direct support from the White House. The president, as heretofore, remains silent about his plans. Some of the White House intimates, who see him daily, say he hasn't as yet made up his mind. These intimates hint that the New Dealers are engaged now in trying to "smoke out the president"—just as the Republicans have been trying, futilely, for months past.

At any rate, the decision is up to the president—both as to whether he will accept a third term nomination and as to his running-mate. And if the White House is correct, the president will not reveal his desires until just before the Democrats assemble in Chicago in their July convention.

CROSS STREET, LOSE AN HOUR

Daylight Saving Time Creates Twin Cities Puzzle.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP)—Champaign and Urbana are twin cities, but if the respective city councils stick by their guns residents are going to gain or lose an hour every time they cross Wright street, the dividing line.

The Champaign council has advanced to passage stage an ordinance calling for daylight saving time, but the city fathers of the adjoining municipality have voted down a similar measure.

GARMENT UNION JOINS A. F. OF L.

Green Erases Objections of Dubinsky to Return of Organization.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The International Ladies Garment Workers union convention today voted to return to the American Federation of Labor.

The recommendation was put before the 650 delegates attending the 40th annual ILGWU convention. The union has a membership of 250,000.

The unexpected move, it was learned, came after David Dubinsky, ILGWU president, obtained in a letter from William Green, A.F. of L. head, positive assurances on all three objections Dubinsky has raised to re-affiliation.

Green's letter promised, it was said, that the power to suspend affiliated unions would be restored to the A. F. of L. convention. Dubinsky charged the federations executive council unlawfully usurped this power.

NAMED PRIEST

A. T. Sneeringer Elected to Head Mansfield Chapter.

A. T. Sneeringer was elected high priest of Mansfield Chapter 28, R. A. M., at the annual election and installation of officers at the Masonic temple last night. He succeeds Fred L. Ohler.

Other officers chosen are Wilbur H. Barr, king; E. Ray Jenkins, scribe; Arlis F. Porter, treasurer; John Weil, secretary; Homer L. Dent, captain of hosts; John E. Niebel, principal sojourner; H. Kenneth Day, royal arch captain; Lester H. Rain, third veil; E. B. Davis, second veil; Roger Oster, first veil; George L. Cretors and David M. Hedrick, stewards, and Charles S. Hill, guard.

Re-elected were C. S. Hill, C. F. Harding and Walter Burrier, trustees, and Frank H. Marquis, A. E. Courtney and J. M. Garber, members of the temple board. Ohler was presented with a Past High Priest jewel by the chapter.

VACATIONS FOR FIREMEN HEAD TOWARD COUNCIL

Administration and Finance Committee to Meet for Study of Problem.

The problem of vacations for city firemen and the need for four additional men to temporarily fill the positions was headed for a special session of city council today following Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger's announcement yesterday that one of the city's fire stations would be closed unless funds are provided to hire the men.

Plans went forward today for a meeting of administration officials with council's finance committee, probably this week, to discuss ways and means of raising necessary funds.

Council last night failed to take action on legislation that would have provided the "relief men," due to lack of finances in the city's operating fund.

Fred Miller, financial committee chairman, said oday that he had agreed to the meeting but was doubtful whether funds could be raised. He said the committee had a request before the firemen's pension board seeking a transfer of $1,760 from its surplus funds, but that no reply had yet been received. He added that no action was likely until the committee heard from the board.

The pension board has an opinion from City Solicitor Marion D. Ward in which he has ruled such a transfer illegal.

Meanwhile council approved the renewal of a contract with Madison township trustees for furnishing fire protection for the township at an annual rate of $2,000.

George C. Kyle, council member of the pension board and sponsor of the bill to hire the firemen, questioned the finance committee last night on the possibility of using the funds paid by the township for the additional men.

Seven Graduated At Commencement For Nursing Class

Seven young women were graduated from the Mansfield General hospital school of nursing at commencement exercises last night in First Methodist church before about 300 parents and friends.

The address was given by Atty. Marshall C. Moore who told the graduates that society expected them to devote their time to improvement of their profession, to their patients, and to becoming good citizens. Dr. C. R. Damron, president of the hospital medical staff, also addressed the graduates.

The class was presented for graduation by Miss Ethel Howard, and diplomas were awarded by Judge C. H. Huston, president of the hospital board of trustees. Nursing pins were presented by Miss Mabel F. Selfe, director of nurses. Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First Methodist church, gave an invocation and benediction.

Eugene Weinberger, violinist, presented two violin solos, and Mrs. Elsie Ireland, played the organ processional and recessional.

Members of the class are: Margaret Mary Daugherty, Iona Nettie Hale, Miriam L. Keller, Betty Lenore Rettig, Olga Ruth Shorthouse, Caroline Elizabeth Stelts and Eleanor Jane Studer.

VALUE $49,000

Husband Named Administrator of Mabel C. Krause Estate.

Albert B. Krause, 37 Brinkerhoff avenue, today was named administrator of the estate of his wife, Mabel C. Krause, who died last April 6.

Appraisers, W. E. Orbison, J. Clarke Custer and Philip Wolfe, placed a value of $9,000 on real property and $40,000 on personal property.

PLAN OPPOSED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Defeat of the proposed Bigelow plan for larger pensions was urged today by Edward M. Tharp, state director of the Ohio Society for aid to the aged, which seeks an amendment guaranteeing $40-a-month pensions for the aged. Bigelow hopes to place his once defeated plan before voters again at the Nov. 5 election.

Top Grads at St. Peter's High

These four students staged a nip-and-tuck race for highest honors in the graduating class at St. Peter's high school, with only 2.75 points separating first and fourth places. Catherine Basting, top left, took first honors, with a rating of 98.4, John Liebfritz, top right, had a rating of 98.2 for second place. Mary Vogel, lower left was third, with 98.16, and Lillian Wentz was fourth with 98.15, just a hundredth of a point behind. The four received their scholastic awards at Class night exercises yesterday.

THREE GIRLS, BOY WIN HONORS FOR JUNE GRADS AT ST. PETER'S

Awards for top scholastic honors went to four students, three girls and a boy, from the June graduating class of St. Peter's high school during annual Class Night exercises in the high school auditorium last night.

First honors in the class of 39 went to Catherine Basting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Basting, 42 Mendota street, who graduates with a scholastic average of 98.4. Miss Basting was given the Alumni Scholastic Plaque. In addition to the plaque, she received a perfect attendance award and a shorthand speed award.

Other top ranking students are John Leibfritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Leibfritz, 25 Arthur avenue, second with an average of 98.2; Mary Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Vogel, 79 Wood street, third with an average of 98.16, and Lillian Wentz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wentz, 18 Newlon place, fourth with an average of 98.15. Loving cups went to these three students.

Liebfritz was also presented with a scholarship to the University of Dayton, the Eta Sigma Phi National Latin medal, given to the most outstanding fourth year Latin student, the prize he won in the national essay contest sponsored by Progressive Aids to Catholic Education, New York, and one of the perfect attendance awards.

Other awards presented were a fountain pen to Mary Palumbo, who placed 12th in an international shorthand contest sponsored by the Gregg company of New York; shorthand speed awards to Lillian Wentz, Mary Vogel, Viola Myers and Esther Cappadonna; a special shorthand award to Lillian Wentz and an expert typing award to Mary Vogel; the Laboratory Science medal to Lawrence Smith; a mathmatics medal to Wendelin Gruber; a progress medal for the student who made the greatest progress in four went to Ernest Capadonna, and the third perfect attendance award went to Mary Vogel.

Commencement exercises for the class will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in St. Peter's Catholic church with Rev. John Vogel, professor of philosophy at Mary Manse College, Toledo, as the speaker. Msgr. R. C. Goebel will present the diplomas.

The exercises will conclude with solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and the singing of the "Te Deum."

Rifle Club Won't Join Plan Against 'Parachutists'

The anti-parachutist movement started last month by a Jeannette, Pa., rifle club and which has since spread to other parts of the country to combat possible invasion of the United States by air, will not be adopted by the Mansfield Rifle club, its president, Ed Ross said today.

Most of the clubs adopting the movement are probably doing it to gain a little publicity, and their attitude toward invasion at the present time is beyond the realms of possibility, he said.

There are 13 members in the Mansfield club, and they are all affiliated with the National Rifle Association. Several members are Reserve Officers and most of them take part in the shoot sponsored by the U. S. army at Camp Perry each summer, according to Ross. The members shoot with 45 and 22 automatics as well as the regulation Army rifles.

Latest of the clubs to join the anti-parachutist movement is the Fort Harmar rifle club at Marietta. The club, with a membership of 200, today organized an emergency unit to protect Marietta plants manufacturing government orders.

DIPLOMAS GO TO 341 TOMORROW

Graduation Exercises to Be Held at Senior High and St. Peter's Church.

High school life for 341 Mansfield young people will draw to a close tomorrow evening during commencement exercises at Stadium Field and St. Peter's Catholic church.

A class of 302 will graduate from Senior high school at exercises to be held at Stadium Field at 6 p. m. ,and 39 seniors of St. Peter's high school will receive diplomas at exercises at St. Peter's church at 8 p. m.

Dr. Clyde E. Wildman, president of De Pauw university, will deliver the commencement address at the Senior high school exercises, and Rev. John Vogel, professor of philosophy at Mary Manse college, Toledo, will be the speaker at St. Peter's church.

In case of rain the Senior high school exercises will be held in the auditorium, school officials announced. The exercises will bring to a close the 1939-40 school years for both schools. Schools will all be dismissed Thursday afternoon for their annual summer vacation.

FRENCH ESCAPE DUNKIRK TRAP

68 Drift to English Coast In Boats Abandoned as Worthless.

(By United Press)

LONDON—A French artillery captain, one of the last of Dunkirk's defenders to escape from the advancing Germans, reached the English coast today after 24 hours of drifting in the choppy channel, with a story of thousands left stranded on the city's blood-stained and bullet-raked beach.

With his gun crew, the captain retreated to the beach after their ammunition had been exhausted only to learn that there would be no more rescue armadas from the opposite shore.

"Thousands were stranded on the beach waiting for the German bombs and guns," he said. "It was terrible."

The captain and 67 other Frenchmen, and all the others who could find them, utilized abandoned lifeboats, skiffs, canoes and bullet-riddled motorboats to flee from the oncoming Germans who were spraying the beach with machine gun bullets.

The 68 Frenchmen, believed to be the last of the city's last-ditch defenders to escape, and other stragglers arrived at south coast English ports in as motley a fleet as ever plied between the two shores.

6 GET EAGLE SCOUT RANKING AT COURT OF HONOR SESSION

The rank of Eagle Scout, highest in scouting, went to four Boy Scouts and two scouters at an area court of honor last night in the Elks home. More than 200 parents and friends attended.

Heading those to receive the Eagle rank was Clarence G. Silcott, 53, deputy district scout commissioner of Mansfield, who became the first person in the area ever to receive the Eagle rank at his age.

Also to receive the Eagle rank from Mansfield is Edward Spandau who received a ten-year veteran's badge. Spandau graduates from the Case School of Applied Science this month. Others receiving the rank are Richard Claes and Robert Briggs of Shelby, and Harold Robinson and Donald Myers of Lexington. Eagles badges were presented by L. A. Ott, president of the Johnny Appleseed area.

Advancement and special awards went to 36 other scouts and scouters in the area. Heading those to receive special awards are Robert and Tom Sutter, Shelby brothers, who received their Silver-Silver Eagle palms, for earning 30 merit badges over the 21 necessary to become an Eagle Scout. They are the only two scouts in the area ever to receive this palm, and it is the highest they can advance in the scouting movement. The Star rank went to 20 and the Life rank to six others.

The Gold Quill, journalism award, went to two Mansfield scouts, Lee Adams and Fred Morey, and five-year veteran badges were awarded Fred Elder and Roger Pfahler of Mansfield, Edwin Weiss of Crestline and Barnard McLaughlin of Shelby. Presentation of Star badges was made by J. F. Sutter of Shelby, and Arch Kirkpatrick of Ashland, awarded the Life badges.

J. Leo Hartmann, chairman of the court of honor, presided, assisted by four Eagles Scouts, Cliff Hartnett and Fred Elder, jr., of Mansfield, Edwin Weiss of Crestline and Roger Pfahler of Shelby.

Among scouters to receive awards are Cleo Donaldson, assistant scoutmaster of Crestline, Ayden Reym, troop committeeman of Crestline, Charles Kirchberg, Loudonville scoutmaster, and Kark Hachman, Crestline scoutmaster.

The Life rank went to Robert Black of Mansfield, Arbert Remy of Crestline and Barnard McLaughlin, Richard Cumberworth, Donald Cline and Kenneth Troxell of Shelby. Those to receive the Star rank are Robert Stevenson, Wayne Sweval, Cy Messimer and Scott Keller of Mansfield; Robert Sterling, Dean Metz, Gerald Spangler, Mahlon McLaughlin, Charles Hart, Robert Elliott, Dean Kime and Marlin Yarman of Shelby; Cleo Donaldson, Ayden Remy, Karl Hackman of Crestline; Eugene Robinson, Donald Horchler of Lexington, and Charles Kirchberg, and James McClure of Loudonville.

START GARDENS TO COMPETE IN SCHOOL EVENT

248 Junior Garden Members Enrolled In Competition For Brinkerhoff Prizes.

Junior Garden club members have started their gardens which will compete for the Brinkerhoff Memorial awards at the end of the summer There are 248 members enrolled in the project, as compared to 164 last year.

The city is divided into six districts of equal enrollment. The gardening contest is open only to pupils in the public grade schools. Garden clubs of the city sponsor the project and their representatives serve as judges. Mrs. A. M. Colby, of the Mansfield Garden club, is general chairman.

The awards are $4, $3, $2 and $1 in each district, the money being provided by the will of the late Gen. Roeliff Brinkerhoff, for the purpose of encouraging beautification of lawns and home exteriors. The contest is for flower gardens only.

One of the most active Garden clubs this season was organized at Bowman school where there are 53 members taking part in the garden contest. The Western Avenue school and Brinkerhoff garden clubs are open to girls, while all others are open to both boys and girls.

Each school club has a chairman. Bowman street has four because of the size of its club. Chairmen will visit every garden several times during the summer, watching its development.

School chairmen are: Bowman school — Mrs. Roland Morehead, Mrs. John Bacquet, Mrs. J. R. Stevenson and Mrs. Milton Layer; Carpenter—Mrs. R. L. Traxler; Hedges—Mrs. W. G. Wendland; Prospect—Mrs. Clark Ohl; Brinkerhoff—Mrs. Robert Lamb; Western—Mrs. Roy Beck; Newman—Mrs. Leo Karsmizki; Woodland—rMs. Clay Noel; Bushnell—Mrs. Viron Broach; West Fifth street—Mrs. Carl Heilman.

Judges make their decisions early in August and the awards are given at the first P-T-A meetings in September.

CAR SALES GAIN 65 PER CENT

Richland Dealers Sell 322 New Autos During May.

Richland county automobile dealers sold 322 new cars in May for a gain of 65 per cent over sales for May, 1939, the monthly report of Norman Henry, deputy county clerk, showed today.

Truck sales showed a slight decline, however, with 23 sold last month as compared to 25 last May.

Car sales in May dropped off slightly from the April sales. There were 350 sold in April to set a two-year high.

WAR NEARING WESTERN SHORE

machine might sweep through Britain, leaving it helpless, he said that even if that happened, the empire "guarded by the British fleet, will carry on the struggle until in God's good time, the new world, with all its forces and men, sets forth to the liberation and rescue of the old world."

Significant to officials also was a speech made in New York last night by Lord Lothian, British ambassador. Recalling Germany's conquest over seven European states, he added:

"Hitler is now bent on doing exactly the same thing . . . to France and England. If he wins, they also are to be disarmed and made subservient to the gestapo, and rendered incapable of exercising any further independent influence in Europe, or indeed the world. . . .

"What Hitler is now after, of course, is the British fleet. If he can seize that, he steps from the domination of Europe to the domination of the world."

There has been considerable speculation in recent weeks as to whether Britain, threatened with a "blitzkrieg" that might decimate its civil population, would surrender its fleet as the price of avoiding that horror. Churchill, it was noted, has answered this question with a firm "No."

That, while freeing the administration of one worry—A Germany might on the sea as well as on land and in the air—provides it with another equally grave. It is the general opinion of officials that the United States would find it impossible to remain out of a European war being fought in a North American theater of operations.

Police Data Shows Careless Driving on Increase in City

Mansfielders are apparently getting more careless in their operation of automobiles.

At least that is what police records indicated yesterday.

Although arrests for infractions of traffic regulations showed an increase in April, accidents on city streets during the past four weeks jumped to the highest in several months.

This was revealed in the monthly report of activities of the police department submitted to Service-Safety Director C M. Crafton by Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

The report showed that one person was killed—the first fatality on city streets in six months. Six others were injured in 102 crashes as compared with 85 accidents involving automobiles during March.

A total of 14 drivers were arrested during the month, four more than were arrested in the month previous

The police department's campaign against illegal parking however, showed a noticeable decrease, citations for failure to observe parking regulations totaling 335 as against 398 in March. Collections from the tickets decreased accordingly, dropping from $437 in March to $356 last month.

During the month, police arrested a total of 156 persons, 12 of them women. This was an increase of 43 over March.

Eighty-one, or more than 50 per cent of those arrested were charged with intoxication, 18 were held for investigation, 10 for disorderly conduct and 14 for violating the state liquor regulations.

From 1928 to 1939 inclusive there were 542,370 persons killed or injured by autos in California.

LOTTERY HELPS TAX REDUCTION

Puerto Rico Raises Nearly Million Dollars For Hospital Funds.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—(INS)—The Puerto Rican lottery, the only legal one under the American flag, brought substantial tax reductions to the island in 1939, its director, Herbert S. Cochran, reported to Governor William D. Leahy.

"Nearly one million dollars has been contributed directly to the insular treasury for hospital funds and as aid to municipalities during the past year," Cochran declared.

"Apart from the financial aid the lottery gives to the State, we have given out $2,743,160 00 in prizes during the past year," the report added.

Of total disbursements $475,270 99 went to the Insular Health department to combat sickness on the island; $237,635 51 for municipal public hospital charities, and for the aid of municipalities of the second and third classes, $237,635.52 was donated. Oordinarily, these funds would have to be raised in direct imposts

The Puerto Rican lottery is unique in the United States in that it is not only legal but government sponsored.

AFFECTS ESKIMOS

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Even the Eskimos are feeling the pinch of the European war. According to the Rev. George L. Neilson, for six years a missionary in southern Baffin island, the Eskimos have had to do without their two luxuries—tobacco and tea—because they can't be bought due to high taxes imposed since start of the war.

MANSFIELD JUNE 5, 1940

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1940.

So live that you will never have cause to regret that your fingerprints are on file.

Once more the warning is timely: "If in doubt about a mushroom, don't take a chance on it."

More and more countries are forbidding the removal of wealth, underscoring the old truth that "you can't take it with you."

Relief Needs Increase

NEEDS for relief of suffering in the war-torn countries of Europe are so much greater than were anticipated when the first Red Cross call for contributions was sent out, that the original quota has been doubled—and it is now $20,000,000 that is being asked of the people of the United States.

The Red Cross is the one organization which is in position to work swiftly and effectively in administering relief and giving aid to those in distress, and it is through their voluntary contributions that Americans are now enabled to give expression of sympathy for innocent victims of war and to share, even in a small way, in the herculean task of this humanitarian agency.

Having exceeded its original war relief fund quota of $6,000, the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross is now appealed to for double that amount and D. O. Meese, general chairman for this special campaign, has announced that the books will be kept open to accept additional contributions, but that there will be no further canvass.

If there are some persons in Mansfield, and other parts of Richland county, who have not yet made a contribution to the Red Cross war relief fund, their attention is directed to the urgent need of refugee civilians in warring countries for aid that can thus be given them. And if some of those who have subscribed, on the basis of the smaller quota, wish to increase their contributions, they now have opportunity to do so.

The needs are great, and all money subscribed will be put into use quickly in performing missions of mercy.

No Justification for Despair

EVEN those who are ordinarily inclined to be optimistic have been expressing gloomy forebodings during the past several weeks as news from European battlefields told of continued Nazi advances and a threat of invasion of England.

Revelation of United States unpreparedness, and the rush toward a tremendous rearmament program, also caused misgivings on the part of millions of people who had theretofore been calmly confident that this country would be able to defend itself against the entire world—if necessary.

But Englishmen, as they look back on their longer history, are not so easily disheartened. They have had many experiences with discouragements which proved temporary, and from which they emerged stronger than before. Note the following expressions of views of intelligent men, based on conditions of their time:

In 1801 Wilberforce said: "I dare not marry—the future is so uncertain."

In 1806 William Pitt said: "There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair."

In 1848 Lord Shaftsbury said: "Nothing can save the British Empire from shipwreck."

In 1849 Disraeli said: "In industry, commerce and agriculture there is no hope."

In 1852 the dying Duke of Wellington said: "I thank God I shall be spared from seeing the consummation of ruin that is gathering about us."

America has also had its seasons of crisis and despair, from the dark days of Washington at Valley Forge; through the difficult period of founding and expanding a new nation; on into the heart-breaking strife of the Civil war; more recent participation in the first World war, and recurrent depressions which worked hardships on millions of people.

But always the torch of civilization has been carried forward and the God-given light of the human spirit has survived the temporary blackouts. And it will be so again.

Where 25-Mile Limit is Enforced

A SPEED LIMIT of 25 miles an hour seems slow, even in a busy city, but that is the rigidly enforced limit set by Providence, R. I., and it has been given credit for an exceptionally low number of traffic accidents.

When the limit was first named there was a shout of protest on the part of motorists. They felt they were being unduly slowed down and that it was a backward step in a motorized world. The police department has rather cleverly silenced the protests. It sponsored a race the other day, in which one driver was allowed to cross the city as fast as he could go, obeying traffic lights, of course. The other driver, also observing lights, never went more than 25 miles an hour. The fast driver won by only one minute.

After observing the speed of from 50 to 70 miles an hour at which cars are frequently driven on the Ashland road (inside Mansfield city limits where the legal speed limit is 35 miles an hour), speed of 25 miles an hour might seem like a "funeral procession"—but it would be better to SEEM like a funeral procession than to BE the funeral procession of some youthful victim.

Reforming the Watermelon

"STREAMLINED Watermelon Is Goal of Experimenters" is the headline over a story from the South Carolina experiment station near Charleston. But further reading reveals that it isn't so much the lines of the melon that are to be improved as other features.

In the first place, it is to be grown a little smaller, because the bigger melons are too bulky for modern refrigerators. That's not going to please the people who like to eat their melons right out of the field, or those who take them on picnics and keep them pleasantly cool until time to eat by setting them in a tub of water or spring. Size is still a virtue in such cases.

Other projected improvements are more generally acceptable. The new melons will mature earlier and will be sweeter and firmer, and the meat will be redder.

Incidentally, the experiment station accomplishing these reforms is engaged in several others—such as developing sweet corn that will resist certain pests, tomatoes that will live for a month and peas that can be grown in colder weather.

Shirley Temple's retirement at eleven proved quite a shock to some of the 12-year-olds, who think they feel old age creeping on.

Redtape is poor ornamentation for a defense program.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—New York's Midtown Bus Terminal runs the length of a city block, and to it every three minutes of the day and night come and go big red, green and yellow roadhogs from Seattle, Miami, Boston, Detroit, Albuquerque, San Francisco and all points North, South, East and West.

Some of the buses are streamlined and sleek, and others are scarecrows of the road, old shabby derelicts with broken seats and frayed upholstery—but they get you there just the same. This terminal is only a few steps from Times Square, in the thick of things. Traffic is nerve-wracking. Inside the terminal the amplifiers and loud speakers relay fog-horn voices constantly announcing the arrival and departure of the various buses.

The first thing you see, from the 43rd street side, is a "tourist agency." This is local. It gives information and arranges tours in the city for the benefit of visitors. Next there is a Western Union telegraph counter. Next to this is a newsstand, with all the recent papers and magazines. Further on are the ticket agents, the baggage room, the shoeshine stands, the public telephones and the restaurant.

* * *

FREQUENTLY the radio in this restaurant vies for attention with the public address system, and when this happens the noise is something to consider. This radio feeds a steady flow of bulletins and war communiques from the front during the forenoon, and a play-by-play description of baseball games during the afternoon.

You walk in there during the afternoon, and the radio is surrounded by bus drivers, waiters and other people. When Brooklyn is playing it is hard to get anyone to wait on you—that's how avidly the Midtown gang follows the fortunes of the Brooklyn ball club.

Back of the counter, where you can get "luscious" steak sandwiches with French fried potatoes for 30 cents, there is a waitress with black hair. Yesterday she was a red head. The first time I saw her a bus driver came in and tweeked her nose. She gave him a cold, level gaze and turned away.

"Still mad, eh?" he asked.

"Why don't you let Mae alone?" one of the other waitresses cried.

"Listen," said the bus driver. "Were you ever married to me?"

"I should say not."

"Well, Mae was. She was my first wife."

* * *

UNFORTUNATELYY something happened just then to stop the conversation. A man ran in and yelled upstairs, and a group of people clattered up the stairs. In a little while an ambulance arrived and a doctor went upstairs, too. I suppose it was the manager's office. In any case, a little while later, the doctor came out with a grin on his face and said, "It's a little girl. Everything's fine."

It was then we knew that our bus terminal, temporarily at least, had been turned into a maternity ward.

On all sides of the doctor streamed hundreds of people, intent on grabbing buses for Princeton, Wilkes-Barre, maybe even for your home town, who never realized that at that moment a new life had come into the world amid the clatter of baseballs from Brooklyn and the fog-horn announcements of the starters who were guiding people into and out of America's great transcontinental road coaches.

WHERE'S THE CHEWIN' GUM?

Mechanized Units Vital for Army

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The desperate resistance of high naval officers to change—all through history—occasionally arouses some rebellious souls of frenzy. Everybody knows NOW that mechanized units are vital for the army—but the war department made no effort to take the advice of General Hugh Johnson, when, as head of N. R. A., he wanted a lot of that first relief money spent for providing our army with this vital aid.

The generals were mostly insisting that the backbone of the army was foot soldiers. They wanted planes, but were more anxious for many other things. In fact there were times when it seemed they were more interested in army posts and buildings than in more planes.

The admirals resented the idea of young aviation officers wearing wings on their breasts, and said so very frankly to their juniors. Both generals and admirals were desperately afraid, back in the days when General William Mitchell and Admiral William Simms were peppering the services in behalf of more aviation, that a separate department for aviation might be created, which would be under neither the army nor the navy.

It is not fair to say that the generals and the admirals, and for that matter the navy captains and the army colonels, were afraid such a separate air ministry would interfere with their own promotions. It would have, beyond doubt, but they sincerely believed that the airplane was merely a scout unit for the older branches.

* * *

AND they believed honestly that the best efficiency for national defense would be obtained by having the air units mere cogs in the army and navy machines. The navy even went further. The admirals did not like the notion of an officer serving ALWAYS in the air service, even if he were under the navy all the time. They wanted him to take tours of duty on air service so to speak, but maintain his ratio of service in the line.

This is not an argument for a separate air service. It is merely mentioned to show what the admirals and generals were afraid of in the development of air fighting power, and to recall one of the potent reasons why our army and navy today are so deficient in the air.

But this matter of protecting the decks of battleships from the plunging fire of bombs dropped from airplanes is even more striking to the average observer. It was demonstrated, back in 1922, by bombing of the old German warships off the Virginia capes, that airplanes COULD sink battleships if the bombs were big enough, and hit the right places—one of the best, incidentally, surprising as it was at the time, being in the water right alongside the battleship's hull.

* * *

SO WHY was not there the clamor THEN for protecting the decks of battleships with stronger and thicker armor?

The question becomes even more difficult to answer if one figures just where the shell of an enemy battleship — or shore battery — is likely to hit a battleship.

Naval officers have always known that the deck, not the sides of a ship, is the most likely spot to expect a hit from a big shell—a shell fired from a 14-or-16-inch gun fifteen miles or more distant from the target. If you will draw an imaginary trajectory of such a shell's course you will see it instantly. It is not vitally different from the trajectory of a golf ball, or a baseball, except that it is so much bigger. Also, because of the tremendous height it MUST reach at the highest point of the trajectory, it is apt to be falling in almost a vertical line when it hits.

Listen, World!

"Our Function Is Clear!"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEEN WILHELMINA is about to speak by special broadcast from Buckingham palace, London, England," the announcer said.

Wilhelmina, still Queen of the beloved Netherlands, undaunted even in defeat—those words must have roused millions of Americans to deferent attention. Sitting around a radio in California's high Sierra, 7,000 miles from that touching figure, we waited.

Static first. Roar of wind and sea. (Was there the bellow of bombs, the choking sobs of the dying?) Then, thin and infinitely weary, the voice of a Queen . . . the cry of a clean and resolute soul protesting against the Powers of Darkness. Hard to hear—again and again that wild uproar surged over the slow and painful words. But two phases rang out and remain in my memory as deathless Truth—

"It is at last plain that it is useless to expect happiness . . . but our function is clear—"

"OUR FUNCTION IS CLEAR" —there is something to clutch and cling to in the static of this reeling world.

"Our Function." Not only the function of a defeated Queen, a desolated country . . . but the function of every human being who worships Honor and desires Decency.

"OUR FUNCTION IS CLEAR."

We do not know, as I write, what the future holds in store . . . what misery and mutilation, hitherto unimagined in human history. We are overwhelmed by horror and bewilderment, by a darkness which our prayers cannot seem to pierce, by a doubt which shakes our souls. And yet, in spite of all this—

"OUR FUNCTION IS CLEAR!"

We need no answers from England or France . . . no command from Washington . . . no sign from the heavens . . . to know what is our duty as human beings. There is that within us, that "spark" of divinity implanted in the clay so long ago, which tells us our function beyond all debate.

No matter what happens "our function is clear."

IT IS OUR FUNCTION TO MAINTAIN OURSELVES AS THE CHILDREN OF GOD . . . TO HOLD OURSELVES WITH PRIDE AND DIGNITY, REGARDLESS OF WHAT COMES . . . TO REJOICE THAT WE HAVE KNOWN AND SUPPORTED IN THIS, OUR COUNTRY, THE NOBLEST PLAN OF BROTHERHOOD EVER ATTEMPTED . . . AND TO WAGER ALL WE HAVE AND ARE THAT THAT PLAN MAY NOT PERISH IN THE HEARTS OF MAN.

That is our function—as human beings, as Americans. If we remember that, we cannot fail, not even "if all Hell encompass us."

The Hermit's Garden

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE HERMIT has a little winding path from his rough woodland shanty to the spring where he gets water. Here, on a warm wet spring morning, I met him and passed the time of day.

"Ain't it a splendid morning," he exclaimed. "Hear the birds sing! See them two nests yonder—the bluebird's on the thorn tree and the robin's on the rail fence? I chased a hawk away and shot off my gun around some red squirrels' ears to scare 'em so they won't come back. I can't believe we'll ever have too many birds. Their songs and their wings and all, make me think of angels. I've brought my home where they are, so we can enjoy each other's company," he added, twinkling.

"But you don't have a road in, and you're all alone—and look how far you have to carry water," I said.

"If there'd be a road 'twould take work to keep it up. I like the little winding path I make. It needs no repairs and I made it go about the part of the field I like best. The spring ain't too far away, for I can take what time I need to go and come. Of course I do get lonely sometimes. Then I go outside my house and listen to the owls and whippoorwills; I watch the rabbits play about the clearing and see the 'possums saunter through the brush. The full moon shines and the stars twinkle through the leaves. Such things does something to me that makes me like my own place better'n ever. I forget about bein' lonesome and go in to my bed and sleep like a healthy child until the sun wakes me.

"Now you look at my garden all you like—I must meet a neighbor—and I hope you'll come back again," he said.

A grub hook stood near the fence of rails and stone. With this he had dug up the virgin soil and woods dirt. Among blackened stumps where roots protruded from the soil, he had planted potatoes. Four weeks ago, perhaps, for they were six inches high. The rows curved in and out among the stumps and brush. I counted six hills of cucumbers — plants with two strong leaves—growing within old keg staves. A patch of onions grew strong and hardy upon the remnant of a sawdust pile. South, nearer the woods, he had carefully left open spaces between the stumps where colonies of trilliums grew and waved their pinkish dripping heads toward me. He had left clumps of purple violets, hepaticas, and jack-in-the-pulpits growing beside the thrifty potato stalks. I never saw a garden where wild flowers and cultivated plants grew profusely together and seemed to know each other.

The hermit gardener has planted with his crops the seeds of peace and beauty. He is my neighbor.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—As far as U. S. military observers can make out, the German general staff does not want Hitler to move into England next. They think the loss of life will be too great. Instead they want to finish the campaign in France, driving east of Paris to hook up with the Italians. Then both armies would advance on the rest of France.

However, Hitler has ignored his general staff before and has usually proved he was right. Also the American observers may not have the real inside information.

There is no question, of course, that German casualties in Belgium were tremendous. Also there is no question that they would be tremendous in England.

However, U. S. military strategists figure that England definitely can be taken. It will cost Hitler between 35 and 50 per cent of his attacking troops, but if the price is paid, the British Isles, uninvaded since 1066, probably can be overrun by a conquering Hitler.

Perhaps the key to whether Hitler wants to pay this price is a remark he made about one year ago, that if the war lasted four years Germany would lose 4,000,000 men; so he would prefer to lose 3,000,000 in the first three months—and win the war.

* * *

Nazis In South America.

THE PROBLEM of protecting the Monroe Doctrine has undergone intensive nights of study of late around the state, war and navy departments. Nobody is exactly predicting that Hitler will invade South America this year, but nobody expected him to invade Norway either. And the British, one year ago, didn't expect to be invaded at all; and did not very well prepare for it.

So. U. S. strategists, not knowing what Hitler, in the full flush of victory, might do, are endeavoring to be prepared.

On the maps of South America hung in government offices these days are two danger spots. One is Brazil, the other Uruguay. Other spots are bad, but these two have the largest number of Nazi sympathizers and fifth column plotters.

Uruguay is simply honeycombed with Nazi agents. There are also strong German colonies in southern Brazil, and even in Buenos Aires. In Argentina, the older army officers are strongly pro-German, having been trained by a German officer. In Brazil, the younger army officers are pro-Nazi.

Particularly worrisome is the fate of these countries with Italy in the war. There are at least 2,000,000 Italians in Argentina—or about one-fifth of the population. Also there are large Italian colonies in Uruguay and Brazil.

Chief undercover strategy of these racial groups is to overthrow the present governments in South America, in favor of puppet governments friendly to the Nazi-Fascist cause. Then these puppet government could renounce the Monroe Doctrine and invite Hitler to the Western Hemisphere.

Note—New aviation aids, enlarging of airports, training of pilots, and even the co-operation of the U. S. fleet in using Brazilian harbors are now under discussion to bolster the present pro-Allied government of South America.

* * *

Capital Chaff.

OLD-AGE pension czar Dr. Francis Townsend is still badgering AFL President William Green over his refusal to attend the Townsend convention in St. Louis, June 30. John L. Lewis has agreed to address the gathering, but Green turned it down and took a poke at Townsend's pension scheme. Representative Joe Hendricks of Florida is warning his constituents that government jobs in Washington are scarce. "The departments are decreasing instead of increasing their forces," he writes in his weekly letter. "Persons coming to Washington seeking employment will be disappointed." . . . For a clear picture of the operation of the World war conscription law, read "Conscription and America" by Dean Edward Fitzpatrick of Mount Mary College, Milwaukee. As a general staff major he played a leading role in administering the law.

* * *

Aviation Bottleneck.

THE first meeting between the machine tool manufacturers and the army and navy in order to speed up airplane production got almost nowhere. It did not look like a very auspicious start toward the president's proposed airplane production of 50,000.

The machine tool industry is vital to the production of more airplane motors, because it must produce the machine tools which in turn make the engine parts. So hard-working Henry Morgenthau asked the industry to Washington to see what could be done about it.

Machine tool leaders included Tell Berna and Charles J. Stillwell of Cleveland, Clayton Burt of Hartford, Howard Dunbar of Worcester, Mass., Norman D. MacLeod of Providence, and John E. Lovely of Springfield, Vt. First thing they asked for was a list of exactly how many machine tools the government wanted them to produce, and in what length of time.

So Major Walter H. Soderholm of the war department produced a list. He had been given only one hour to prepare it, and it was admittedly most inadequate. So the machine toolers sat down with army and navy officers to see just what tools were needed most.

All afternoon they argued back and forth, most of the arguing being done by the army and navy representatives, frequently at cross-purposes with each other. Captain E. D. Almy, representing the navy, wanted to take over certain plants and have them run by the navy, but the army was opposed.

* * *

No Emergency Plan.

FINALLY, one of the machine tool manufacturers said: "I thought that in a war emergency like this you fellows had a plan all ready which would click into action at a moment's notice."

"We had a plan," replied Colonel Harry K. Rutherford, of the war department planning branch, "but not one for an emergency like this."

Col. Rutherford was referring to the industrial mobilization plan, drafted originally under Herbert Hoover, and changed several times in subsequent years. The speed with which Hitler has moved, however, has made the plan woefully out of date.

Finally, the machine tool manufacturers strongly recommended a priority board to tell them which tools and which orders to finish first. Most of the industry is stocked up with unfilled orders until the spring of 1941. But some orders, such as for the now conquered countries of Holland and Belgium, do not need to be finished. Also the orders for Japan can be side-tracked. But what the industry wants is someone from the government to tell them which orders to place ahead of the others.

Nazis Start Gigantic Offensive In France

Violent Attack In Somme Area Opens With Stunning Suddenness; Hitler Plans March Toward Paris.

Emphasis was placed in Paris upon the fact that for the first time the Germans are depending more upon their artillery and infantry detachments than the swift Panzer (mechanized) units which proved so effective in Poland, Holland and Flanders.

The ultimate outcome was, of course, in doubt. In a brief address to the army commission of the chamber of deputies, Premier Paul Reynaud said that there was "reason to hope that the issue will be favorable."

(Editor's Note—A French language broadcast by the official British radio, intercepted in New York by NBC, said violent activity began between the Somme estuary and the Maginot line. It added that "some of the best British units in France" are active between the Somme and the Swiss border.)

A French military spokesman declared the attack began at 4 a. m. with a tremendous artillery barrage, followed by dive bombing and massed infantry assaults.

"The great battle has started again," the spokesman said.

"It extends from the sea to the Soissons-Laon road. It is too early yet to obtain details or even an impression of what is going on.

"When I telephoned the high command at 9:30 a. m. they had no precise information as yet.

"In contrast to the tactics used at the Meuse, the attacks seem to be based upon artillery, dive bombing and infantry.

"The enemy does not appear to have used many armored elements as yet.

"The infantry attacks were started in the middle of the Somme river and in the region east of the Oise river. At least, that is where they were pointed at the start of the fighting.

"I hope to have some details to give you this evening. We can only await the fate of the battle. We have confidence in our soldiers and leaders for the outcome of this battle."

"All information received from the front since early morning shows that a new battle has begun," the war bulletin stated.

"Violent enemy efforts up to the present are being directed between the sea and the Laon-Soissons road."

Soissons is about 55 miles northeast of Paris. Laon is about 20 miles northeast of Soissons.

At the same time, it was revealed that the German air force had carried out another attack against the great French port of Havre during the night, perhaps in a new attempt to hamper communications between France and Britain.

Houses there were still burning this morning as a result of bombs dropped by waves of German planes which circled over the Havre area for an hour last night.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that the death toll resulting from the German air raid on Paris Monday mounted to 254 with 652 injured.

These figures were revealed by Premier Paul Reynaud, who said new victims had been found in the ruins and that many of the injured had died. Search for still more victims was continuing.

At the same time, French authorities indicated the evacuation of French and British troops from the Flanders trap had been completed, with the last men of the rear guard removed from the flaming French port, according to a French admiralty announcement.

Hitler Announces New Battle For 'Freedom' of Germany

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—German troops have resumed their offensive in France, German authorities revealed today, but declined to give out any indication of where the fighting is occurring.

Disclosure in Berlin of the new fighting followed a proclamation by Chancellor Hitler which stated that a new battle had begun "for the freedom of the future German nation" and ordered the nation to hoist its flags and pay homage to the German army.

At the same time, authentic sources stated that the reich had made no new peace overtures. They said, however, that it was evident, from their speeches, that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and French Premier Paul Reynaud had rejected any idea of peace.

These circles stated that no concrete proposals lay behind the German high command announcement yesterday, lashing at the Allied leaders for desiring continuance of the war.

Meanwhile, it was officially admitted that Munich, Frankfurt and the Ruhr had been attacked by Allied planes but it was emphasized that no essential damage had been caused.

Authorities said the number of casualties was not yet known. Details will not be published for military reasons.

Meanwhile the high command and the German foreign office are working out a definition of what Germany will consider "defended" and "undefended" cities.

Another official announcement stated that three generals were among the 40,000 Allied prisoners captured at Dunkerque and that the booty taken by the Germans as yet cannot be estimated.

The port of Dunkerque was destroyed, it was asserted, and 20 large Allied ships were driven ashore there as a result of air attacks. Numerous small vessels also were driven ashore, it was stated.

With the battle of Flanders pronounced at a victorious end, the fuehrer from his field headquarters issued a proclamation to the German people, ordering flags displayed for eight days "in honor of the glorious deeds of German soldiers."

Hitler issued an order of the day for the German defense forces, eulogizing the "exploits, gallantry and endurance" of German soldiers in defeating the Dutch, Belgians, French and British in the low countries and Flanders and in finishing the "greatest battle in history."

"Within a few weeks," he said, "you forced two countries to capitulate, annihilated France's best and defeated the British expeditionary force and chased it from the continent.

"The plutocratic rulers of England and France who conspired to frustrate by all means the flourishing of a new and better world desire continuation of the war.

"Their wishes will be fulfilled."

The fuehrer's pronouncement followed Germany's previous announcement of the capture of Dunkerque and a statement last night from Hitler's headquarters hailing the end of the battle of Flanders as the "greatest military victory of all times."

Asserting that Germany is assured of the "final victory," an official German high command resume of the war to date on the western front placed Allied losses at 1,200,000 men as against 18,715 Germans killed or missing and 42,525 wounded.

It also stated that the Allies have lost 3,541 planes to date—1,142 shot down by the German air force, 699 brought down by anti-aircraft fire and 1,700 destroyed on the ground as against 432 German planes lost.

In addition, it was claimed, during the Flanders battle five Allied cruisers, 13 destroyers, five submarines, ten other naval units and 68 merchant ships and transports were sunk, while ten Allied cruisers, 24 destroyers, three torpedo boats, 22 other warships and 117 merchantmen and transports were bombed and heavily damaged.

Further Allied Reprisal Air Raids Awaited by French

(By United Press)

PARIS—Announcement of further Allied reprisal raids on Germany was awaited today after a second German night bombardment of Le Havre, and disclosure that Allied planes had bombed Munich, Frankfort, the German Ruhr industrial area and German bases in Holland and Belgium.

German planes bombed Le Havre last night for one hour, starting at 9:55 p. m., the exact hour at which they had arrived the night before. The German planes bombed intensely (one word censored). The all clear signal was sounded at 10:55.

Vast Stores of Supplies Left Behind In Evacuation

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY (By Telephone to Berlin)—(AP)—Stores of supplies left behind by the British Expeditionary Force in its withdrawal from Flanders, a German officer told me today, could equip 40 divisions—forces equal to all those of Czecho-Slovakia before its dismemberment.

The abandoned supplies indicated the British had kept excellent lookout for the bodily wants of their soldiers.

Traveling some 200 miles along Germany's front in France and then toward the channel ports and finally into the great Flanders trap gave me a vast picture of the retreat of the B.E.F., France's army of the north and Belgium's defenders.

In following the French retreat along Germany's present south front, I was impressed by the fact that the French had abandoned cannons and munitions, as compared with the British leaving of provisions.

As a speedy car hurried me along highway after highway in northern France, I saw cannon after cannon left by the wayside.

The German advance seemingly had been so rapid that Nazi labor battalions and highway constructors could not follow quickly enough to clear up as they had done in Holland and eastern Belgium and bring abandoned booty to collection centers.

Chamberlain Threatened With Removal From Cabinet

(By United Press)

LONDON—Great Britain, while reorganizing its shattered expeditionary force and arming urgently to repel an expected German invasion, threatened today to throw Neville Chamberlain and those long associated with him out of the cabinet as responsible for the "colossal military disaster" which the Allies suffered in Flanders.

It was forecast that as the result of a secret session of the house of commons, to be held probably next Tuesday, Chamberlain might be forced from his war cabinet post of lord president of the council and chairman of the cabinet steering committee, and that others might go with him.

Important hold-overs from Chamberlain's cabinet, from whom Winston Churchill took over a few hours after Adolf Hitler started his blitzkrieg on Holland and Belgium, include Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer; Lord Halifax, foreign secretary; Anthony Eden, war secretary; Sir Andrew Duncan, president of the board of trade, and Sir John Simon, lord chancellor.

At the secret session of the whole problem of home defense, ranging from internment of fifth columnists to anti-invasion members, will be subjected to an unsparing inquiry by commons members. It was forecast that the house might go much further and attempt to fix the blame for the Allied disaster in Flanders, and that the result would be that Chamberlain personally, and probably some of those in his own cabinet, would go.

MUNY JUDGE FLAYS DRIVERS IN CASE OVER $10 COLLISION

Municipal court is no place for automobile drivers to settle disputes over a damaged fender, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch ruled today when he flayed both defendant and plaintiff at a hearing in which one driver charged the other with failure to give name and address after an accident.

Harvie Willsey, 111 Brinkerhoff avenue, accused Helen Bailey, colored, rear 140 Sturges avenue, of refusing to give her name and address following a collision on West Fourth street last Saturday.

Estimated damage to his car, Willsey said, was $10 for the repair of a fender which caught on the bumper of the Bailey machine.

After hearing the testimony Judge Kalbfleisch reprimanded the drivers severely for bringing the case into court.

"Such cases as this one, which disclose discourtesy on the part of both drivers unable to share the road should never have come into this court," he said.

"Some of you drivers get behind the wheel of an automobile and you forget that there is such a thing as courtesy. That's why 30,000 persons are killed and another 200,000 injured every year, because people like you refuse to share the road," he added.

He told them there was such a thing as settling an accident without filing charges against the other driver because he "wouldn't get out of your way."

Miss Bailey pladed innocent to the charge and faced the loss of her driving rights for a year if convicted on the charge. Judge Kalbfleisch, however, said he would recommend to the state that the license should not be revoked because of the nature of the collision, which he termed merely slight. He deferred final disposition of the case.

HAD FORESIGHT

PARIS—(AP)—A Paris shopkeeper, who was sentenced to eight months in jail for making slighting remarks about King Leopold III before the Belgian monarch capitualted to the Germans May 28, has appealed his case on the grounds that he showed "remarkable foresight."

WALLACE SAYS AMERICA NEXT

Declares Dictator Nations Have Designs Upon New World.

America. This was denied, however, by Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference.

Walsh's remark occurred during debate on a bill providing for a cordon of naval air bases around the continental United States, plus an increase in naval air strength to 10,000 planes and 16,000 pilots.

The bill, which calls for expenditures of $2,250,000,000 to be paid from future appropriations, received senate approval and was sent to the house for concurrence in minor amendments.

The house, meanwhile, was approving a compromise $1,492,542,750 naval appropriation bill for the coming fiscal year. Senate ratification of some house changes is necessary before it goes to the president.

As these two measures reached their final legislative stages, President Roosevelt made a detailed request for appropriations and contract authorizations amounting to $1,277,741,170, a breakdown of the recommendations in his defense message of last week.

This sum—the second special billion dollar fund asked in the preparedness drive—would be used to put 68 new warships on the ways, manufacture large numbers of warplanes, construct or improve air bases, and procure guns and ammunitions.

That steps were being taken to conserve manufacturing equipment was disclosed at the state department. Officials there said that a virtual embargo was in effect on the export of machine tools and other machinery essential for production of defense material.

Other developments yesterday:

Charles Edison resigned as secretary of navy effective June 24, to accept the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in New Jersey. The White House has given no indication who will be his successor.

The CIO's executive board endorsed the preparedness program, pledged co-operation and declared "unalterable" opposition to Trojan horse tactics. The board insisted, however, that social and labor legislation be protected.

Formation of the Tennessee Powder company, to supply France and Great Britain with smokeless powder, was announced by the Allied purchasing mission. The plant, to be located near Memphis, will be operated by the E. I. DuPont de Nemours' company, but the Allies will retain complete financial control.

The senate appropriations subcommittee approved a billion dollar relief bill, writing in provisions for non-combatant training for members of the civilian conservation corps and for use of work relief funds on projects connected with the defense program.

BATTLE SHAKES BRITISH COAST

Fighting In France Heard by Britons; Equipment Need Of Allies Reported.

with which British military quarters viewed the offensive was the fact that the bulk of the British expeditionary force as well as thousands of experienced French troops now were in Britain awaiting re-equipment.

Military experts, however, believed that the freshness of the French troops on the Somme-Aisne line—the Weygand line—should be of considerable aid in resisting the offensive. It was added that should the Germans achieve a break-through the Weygand line a critical situation would arise because of the flat terrain between the front and Paris, making a rapid advance by German mechanized units possible.

The experts said it was up to the main French army to hold off Hitler's newest attack, which started at dawn on a 110-mile front from the channel coast to the Aisne.

British experts had received information last night that the German attack was imminent.

Confidence was expresesd that the French, after two weeks of intensive preparation, would make a firm stand.

They will be aided by what is now called the Southern British Expeditionary force, as opposed to the northern one which was evacuated from Flanders.

This southern army is made of some of the finest units of the British army. It is entrenched and in active contact with the Germans on a small part of the long Allied front. It has ample supplies, since the main British Expeditionary farce bases were in its territory, not in that of the northern army.

But as regards offensive activity, competent British quarters said that that British army as a whole will not be in position for several months to make any offensive on land, due to the loss of 1,000 guns and all transport and armored vehicles by the army in Flanders. Any offensive action by Britain must of necessity be confined to the Royal Air Force and the navy.

INCOME TAXES TO GET BOOST

5,000,000 More Persons to Help Pay Defense Cost Committee Decides.

$45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000 and levy additional taxes.

"We are thinking of an $850,000,000 to $900,000,000 tax bill but may possibly raise $1,000,000,000," said Chairman Doughton, (D., N. C.)

Republican members of the committee refused to support the new tax program. They demanded assurance that ordinary expenditures of the government will be cut, asked a guarantee that no part of the emergency fund will be used for regular expenses, and charged that they have been insufficiently informed of administration plans.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley approved the house proposal to boost the tax bill and expressed belief that the senate would acquiesce promptly, perhaps permitting congress to adjourn by June 22.

Pair Wedded Sunday; Makes Home In City

Lexington Girl Bride of George R. Garber In Quiet Service.

Miss Ruby Grace Armstrong, who is the daughter of Rolla Armstrong, Lexington, became the bride of George R. Garber June 2 at the First Christian church in Lexington. The service was read at 2:30 p. m. with Miss Ruth Dernberger, pianist and Mrs. Rogert Swigart, vocalist, furnishing the nuptial music.

The bride wore a gown of white lace and net which was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. The bride's double tiered virgin veil was held in place with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses.

Her father gave her in marriage. Rev. E. G. Hamilton read the service before an altar of palms, ferns, and beauty baskets of summer flowers.

Miss Edwina Heidelbaugh of Lexington was maid of honor. Her gown was of blue marquisette, made with a full skirt, sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. She wore a halo of pink roses in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Garber is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Garber of Bellville. He chose for his best man, his brother, Dean. Maurice, brother of bridegroom, Leland Armstrong, Emery Armstrong and Norman Swigart, were ushers.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bridegroom. Guests were served from a long buffet table which was decorated with summer flowers.

The couple will reside at 110 West Second street, Mansfield.

Miss Garber is a graduate of Lexington high school. She has been employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Mr. Garber, who was graduated from Bellville high school is now employed at the Empire Steel company.

Dolly Madisons Hear Program On Mexico by Club Member

MRS. CHARLES CHEW told 52 members of the Dolly Madison club of her recent trip to Mexico City during a meeting yesterday evening at the home of Mrs Glenn Marriott on Edgewood road. In addition to telling of the places of interest visited on her trip, Mrs. Chew also showed many beautiful baskets, blankets and pottery, as examples of Mexican craftsmanship.

Hostesses, who assisted Mrs. Marriott, included: Mrs. John Daley, Mrs. George Cairns, Mrs. Estelle Dyer, Mrs. C. V. Schill, Mrs. Charles Payne, Mrs. F. C. Long, Mrs. Marshall Moore, Miss Martha Wiles, Mrs. C. W. Marks, Mrs. Philip Schmutzler, Mrs. Carl Horschler, sr., Mrs. John Dalton, Mrs. Steve Dalton and Mrs. Howard Wenning.

A report of activities at the convention of the Federated Democratic Women of Ohio, which was held in Toledo late last month, was given by Mrs. Edith Metcalf. Other delegates who attended the session with Mrs. Metcalf were Mrs. Emma Young, Mrs. Boyd Weimer, Mrs. L. D. Bower and Mrs. Clark Brook. Miss Hazel Zellner, a member of the Federation, also attended.

Mrs. Brook, president, conducted the business session, at which time the group voted to continue membership in the Federated Democratic Women's club and to send a girl from the Children's Home to Camp Wildwood. Mrs. Cliff Mitchell, membership chairman, announced the addition of 45 new members to the club's roster, bringing the total membership to 132. Current events were in charge of Mrs. Young.

When refreshments were served at the close of the program, Mrs. Brook presided at the table, which was decorated with a bouquet of tulips and spirea and lighted with tall tapers. The club's annual picnic will be held on July 9 at Guy Stewart's cabin, Mifflin lake, with Mrs. Betty Styert serving as general chairman.

Club Plans Outing for Mid-June at Lakeside

Mrs. W. E. Wells was a guest at a meeting of the Valencia club last evening at the home of Mrs. H. H. Ruby on Carpenter road. Bridge was the diversion at two tables, and score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Myrtle Aungst and Mrs. C. C. Pollock.

Mrs. Aungst has invited club members and their husbands to an outing at her Lakeside cottage on June 15, while the next regular club meeting will be with Mrs. E. T. Hicks, Marion avenue, on June 18.

School Days Party Entertains Bride-Elect of Howard Heston

AFTER leaving her teaching duties at West Fifth street school, Miss Virginia Anderson, bride-elect of Howard Heston, went to a school-days party last evening. Miss Margaret Black, another teacher at the school, gave the party honoring Miss Anderson at her home on Marion avenue.

The 16 guests were attired in "kid" costumes for the affair, and a number of prizes were awarded in the games, which were all school subjects. Mrs. William R. Riester was the recipient of a prize for the best costume.

Lolipops were given to the group at recess, and a box lunch was served at the close of classes. The honoree received a shower of pantry shelf supplies from the guests, and the hostess presented her with a personal gift. Mrs. Myron Clark, of Cincinnati was an out-of-town guest in attendance.

Miss Anderson and Mr. Heston will be married at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Anderson, on Davis road. The ceremony will be an event of June 16.

Reveal Marriage At Party Given By Two Cousins

At a shower party given last night by Mrs. Alfred Mecurio and Mrs. Michael Mecurio, at the latter's home in Springmill, announcement was made of the marriage of their cousin, Mrs. Carl Bechtel, the former Miss Josephine Mecurio. The ceremony was performed May 1 at Covington, Ky. Mr. and Mrs. Bechtel are now at home at 99 South Foster street.

The guest of honor was presented with a gift of Fostoria ware by the 21 guests. The table was completely set with the service, and streamers leading from the chandelier to the individual pieces bore cards with the names of the donors inscribed. The hostesses presented Mrs. Bechtel with an additional Fostoria ware gift.

Bunco was played during the evening, and Mrs. Frank Kmetz and Mrs. John Fusco were the winners. Refreshments were served at small tables, and each guest was given a favor of a small Fostoria ware ash tray. On Monday night of next week Mrs. Fusco and Mrs. Ellis Daugherty will entertain.

Entertains Guild; Talks on Mission Work

The Ella Montgomery guild of the East Mansfield church met yesterday with Mrs. Kenneth Hatcher, North street, East Mansfield. Mrs. Smith had the devotions, after which Mrs. Linna Reynolds told of the mission work in Frenchburg, Ky. Mrs. Willard Heiser read a poem.

Plans were made for an ice cream social on the church lawn, but no date was announced. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Charles Metcalf. Members will meet again July 2 with Mrs. Wilbur Harry, Bahl avenue.

• • •

ENTERTAINS GUILD.

Members of the Senior W. W. G. of the Park Avenue Baptist church were the guests of the Misses Mary and Margaret Dellenbaugh, 78 Poplar street, last night. There were 16 members and four guests present. Miss Marjorie Ann Hawkins gave a report of the Northern Baptist convention. The next meeting will be July 9 at the home of Mrs. James Keith, Park avenue west road.

C. L. of C. Has Social; Plans Future Events

High score award went to Mrs. Mary Straub last night when bridge was in play at four tables at the social meeting of the C. L. of C. held in the Bird building club rooms. Mrs. Anna Schiska was also awarded a bridge prize.

Five hundrded was played at seven tables with Mrs. Anna Schweitzer and Mrs. Catherine Zimmerman winning the prizes. Miss Mary Rizzo won the grand prize. The group will meet at 6.30 p. m. June 12 at the Schwarz tavern for the tournament dinner. No social meeting will be held in July, and the group will picnic in August.

• • •

ENTERTAINS.

Sixteen members of the E-T club met at the home of Miss Frieda Boebel yesterday evening on Glessner avenue. The group played games and contests, with prizes going to Mrs. Leonard Hutzelman, Mrs. Arthur Hunter, Mrs. Fred Mansfield and Miss Jessie Eckert. Pink and green appointments predominated when luncheon was served. On June 18, Miss Helen Berlo will entertain the club members at her home on South Diamond street.

Start Reading Early

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Frequently in this column I have urged parents to read to the child, beginning in his second year and continuing long past the time he enters school. Thus a parent not only gives a child wholesome pleasure but also cultivates ease and force of expression in him, fires his imagination or fills him with facts and motivates him to learn to read, by and by, to himself.

Something else happens when the parent reads daily to the child for years and years. The parent improves his own speech and style of writing. I can testify. I used to speak and write more laboriously than at present. When I wrote my doctor's dissertation I toiled for weeks and months writing it after all the data were assembled; and when it was finished it was hard to read. For a number of years thereafter I still wrote with great difficulty, having to re-write repeatedly.

But, beginning with the first child, about 1914, I read to him, and continued with him and the other children as they came along, I eventually developed a much simpler style and slowly acquired more ease in writing. However bad it be still, it certainly has improved in directness and simplicity since then.

The reason is not hard to find. Folk lore and other materials such as Kipling's Just So Stories, Robinson Crusoe and the Bible, from which I read to these children have choice style. As you read to your baby and young child, my fellow parent, you not only help him but you also help yourself. You improve your own speech and writing.

Time was when nearly all reading at school was oral reading. By and by it was discovered that many children could read well without knowing what they read. Then there developed a strong emphasis at school on silent reading so that many children now in high school can scarcely read aloud from a page of average difficulty. Naturally such a person does not read aloud for pleasure. Fortunately, the pendulum is slowly swinging to more oral reading.

The youth or adult who wishes to improve his vocabulary, his ease and forcefulness of speech and writing, should read aloud every day. Abraham Lincoln read aloud not only while a boy but also when a man, even while in the White House. This fact may help explain the simple potent English he employed.

Lincoln's speeches are good material for us and our children to read aloud. So also are some of the books Abe Lincoln read, including Robinson Crusoe, Pilgrim's Progress and the Bible. There's no better English to read than the Psalms, Isaiah, or the Gospels, in the King James Version. Fortunate the family where its members often read aloud to one another. When all alone in a hotel where a Bible usually is in every room, I often read aloud hoping to improve my style of speech and writing. Any one who cares can improve his expression "without money and without price."

Those wishing to receive a selected list of books from which to read to the children may write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

ATOM SMASHER

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(U.P.)—Construction of a $20,000 laboratory for "atom smashing" will begin at the University of Iowa.

Plans have been drawn up for an underground room 70 feet long by 15 feet wide.

A steel cylinder 45 feet long and 8 feet in diameter will house the equipment used to generate the force needed to smash the minute atoms.

ACCEPT ALBINO CROW

CORVALLIS, Mont.—(U.P.)—A local crow has knocked into a cocked hat the old adage about being "as black as a crow." It is a perfect albino. It apparently has no prejudices, for it eats with a flock of black crows, and they in turn seem to show no resentment against the white member of their flock.

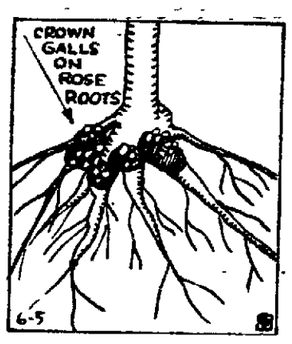
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



CROWN GALL ON PLANT ROOTS

Crown gall is a bacterial disease, and plants which are affected by it lose their vigor and become stunted.

The galls are usually formed at the crown of the plant and on nearby portions of the roots, as shown in today's Garden-Graph. Sometimes these galls appear on portions of the plant which have been injured in some manner.

Do not purchase rose bushes which have these galls on their roots. If examination reveals the galls have developed since the bushes were put into the ground, then remove the plants and destroy them. In such cases the surrounding soil should be thoroughly soaked with a solution of corrosive sublimate (1-1000) as the bacteria which cause crown gall can exist in the soil and thus spread to other plants.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I WAITED breathlessly for Noel's reply to my suggestion about giving his father the benefit of the doubt as to the course he meant to pursue with Mary.

"Unfortunately, I know my father," he said at last, but there was a note of indecision in his voice which belied his words, and of which I instantly took advantage.

"I know you do," I said sympathetically, "and you may be perfectly correct in your premise. But all that I am asking today is that you reserve judgment, and listen quietly, as we all are going to do, to whatever explanation your father sees fit to make us. Later on we can act as seems best to us, but in this library session after luncheon—I don't want any discordant note, don't want to have him feel that we do not give whatever he says the fullest credence."

"You're a thundering good scout, Aunt Madge, to take so much pains with a maverick like me, and I won't make you any trouble, honest I won't. But that Redfield won't be around to lunch, will he?"

"He's already on his way back to the hotel," I told him, sternly repressing a smile which would have been fatal to Noel's good resolutions had he glimpsed it.

"Good place for him," he said a bit childishly, and I clapped him on the shoulder.

"Cheer up, boy!" I told him. "If I know Mary, and I think I do, she is perfectly capable of putting Mr. Redfield or anybody else in his place, should he try to stray out of it, which I am very sure Mr. Redfield won't do."

I caught my breath at a sudden remembrance of what Nancy Carew had whispered to me as she left the rehearsal.

"Look out for your winsome niece," she had murmured. "Steve Redfield's bad medicine."

I glanced quickly at Noel to see if he had noticed my confusion, but fortunately he already was looking toward the door, and I slipped my hand into the crook of his arm.

"When can I see Mary?" he asked tensely.

"Just as soon as you can be perfectly sure that you won't upset her by letting her guess that you have any other emotion than joy in her triumph."

His eyes were suddenly agleam. "You mean," he stammered, "that I may tell her I was hidden in the studio, and heard and saw the rehearsal?"

"Of course, if you don't tell her what else you saw," I retorted. "She's past that first rehearsal now, and she'll be overjoyed to know you witnessed her triumph. I'll go with you, and tell her where you were, and then you can take care of her till the luncheon bell rings. I'd like you to come down together."

"Thank you," Noel said, and then I stopped at a sudden thought, and brought him to a halt with me.

"Let me give you a bit of advice," I said, a bit embarrassed, but determined to warn him nevertheless. "If Mary asks you if you heard Olina's music, try to answer carelessly, 'Yes, it was good, wasn't it?' or something like that, which will make her think you had no thought for anything but her during the rehearsal."

"That happens to be the exact truth," Noel said with simple dignity. "I know Olina was playing, of course, and my brain registered the fact that she was playing very well. But I was impatient every second to see what was going to happen to Mary."

"That is as it should be," I said, and hurried him on again. I had another word of caution to give him, but I knew that it could wait until we should see Mary.

Old-Fashioned Parties Coming Back

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

High-pressure methods in courtship, as well as high-pressure salesmanship in business, are sometimes doomed to failure. So much effort is expended in producing the result that a fear complex often ensues.

I've had a letter from a group of girls who tell me, with a dash of humor, that while they entertain strictly honorable intentions towards certain young men, they find themselves just about where they were when the snow began to fall last year

They've danced, tapped, swung. The pace had been so hectic that the young men haven't had time to think about anything that suggested domesticity. They were always rushing somewhere, then rushing to go somewhere else. No one ever seemed to spend a quiet evening at home.

Then the mother of one of these girls, wise in her generation, suggested a return to less violent methods of companionship. They harked back not only to her day, but to her mother's day. The speeding youngsters thought these old-fashioned parties were just too quaint for anything—but it seems they are producing results. Among these antiquated diversions was the box social and apron and necktie party.

The box social as you know, or if you've ever read Edna Ferber's "So Big," gives a girl a chance to show what a good cook she is in contriving the "eats" for her box. Boxes are auctioned off for a worthy cause—milk fund for underprivileged children, for instance—and the young man who bids in a certain girl's box has the privilege of eating supper with her. Boxes revealing a golden-brown fried chicken, tomato surprise, and good, dependable homemade cake are wonderful for turning a young man's thoughts to love in a cottage.

The tie-and-apron party probably sent grandpa down on his knees—that's the way they used to propose in his day—even before he realized it. Again the worthy cause was sought, and the girls made the prettiest and most feminine aprons These were auctioned, and bid in by the admiring swains. The next move in the game was to find the neckties that matched the girls' aprons. The girls made the neckties too—the whole charming scheme just reeked with suggestions of delightful domesticity.

Picnic days are here again. If my young friends would like to try out some of these old-fashioned parties so antiquated that they seem positively new, I'll be very glad to send them a party bulletin, if they'll write me, enclosing a self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

"The Authority on Authorities"

LITTLE ONES GROW UP

Even the weakest looking hand may turn out to be of great value to your side, either because of a splendid fit with something your partner holds or because its distribution may raise hob with the opponents' contract. Just as buds of spring and little children grow up, so your little cards may be promoted into powerful pasteboard soldiers by some development of the mimic warfare.

	♠ J 8 7 6 5 ♥ 5 2 ♦ 6 3 ♣ Q J 9 3
♠ 9 ♥ Q 8 6 3 ♦ 10 7 5 4 ♣ 10 8 7 4	N. W. E. S.	♠ A Q 10 4 ♥ 3 ♦ A ♣ A K 6 5
	♠ K 2 ♥ K J 10 9 7 4 ♦ A K 9 2 ♣ 2

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Dbl	4 ♥	Dbl

Little did West think, when he picked up his cards, that his puny hand would turn out to be a mighty club. But developments occurred which put him in possession of the deciding factor of the entire deal. South's 3-Heart bid was obviously very bad, one level too high. North treated it as a virtual one-time force, but could find nothing to bid but No Trumps. After East's double of that, West had to double South's takeout into 4-Hearts ,since he had a perfectly located heart holding and a singleton he could lead to his partner's suit.

East naturally won the spade 9 with his A and returned the 3 for West to ruff with his heart 3. West shot back his smallest club to East's K, and the spade Q was ruffed by South's heart K so he could be sure to get in a diamond ruff. South took two high diamonds, then ruffed the 2. The club Q, covered by the A, was ruffed by South, but the declarer then had to lose tricks to the heart A and Q, so was down two, exactly the number of tricks taken by West's weak hand.

Tomorrow's Problem.

After South's 1-Club, what should West do with an expert partner opposite him, and what with an inexperienced and rather timid one?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 6.

The auguries for this day are read as having a rather deep, obscure or secret slant, especially on affairs of moderate importance. Things may move toward success by strange or unusual contacts, but with the menace of intrigue, subtlety or duplicity unless more than ordinary precaution and cleverness be exercised. Change or travel seem imminent, with elders and superiors taking doubtful stands against innovation. In private affairs, romance figures possibly with rather surprising or unpredictable twists.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the eve of a fairly progressive and successful year, with their unique, original or novel accomplishments moving in fresh grooves or expressions. There is danger of self-undoing or being duped by the craftiness or eccentricities of others, unless much vigilance is exerted against fraud, quackery, intrigue or undercover methods. Change, travel, romance are shown, with elders expressing much interest.

A child born on this day may be skillful and talented in original or novel ways, and should attain fair success, although possibly subject to treacheries or peculiar menaces from hidden sources.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Barney took Brooke's hand and held it. If Julian were not here she would like to go to sleep on Barney's well-padded shoulder, she thought.

But Julian was here and his quick vital glance kept her alert in the dim twilight when their eyes met and held. Some of what was said was lost to her in her wonderment of him and the thoughts that lay behind his penetrating glance. It would be frigid, warm, indifferent, curious, that glance. There were moments when there was still much about him of a small boy who had lost a courageous mother. And there were other moments when she felt that she was nothing to him but a specimen for experimentation.

A delectable dinner was served by a smiling servant whom Barney affectionately called Jake. Brooke poured the coffee in the livingroom —quantities for Barney. Again as they sat about the fire she was not conscious of time passing but only of a warm inner glow from the friendly conversation of the two men which was frequently directed to her.

Once Barney said, "You hear a lot of talk about 'families' these days. My grandfather was a pioneer. He didn't know his own name when he saw it written. I'm proud of him. It makes you ashamed when you think of the things they had to battle for and the things that get us down. We've all gone soft."

It was Brooke who said at last that they must be going. Barney followed them to the car, urging them to come soon again.

Driving back, Julian asked, "Sleepy? I refuse to be a shoulder for you to go to sleep on. We could sing. I sing badly but my singing is guaranteed not to act as a sedative."

* * *

It was two weeks before he telephoned again to tell her the precise day when he was motoring north to his sister's home. His voice was cool and, feeling that they were strangers again, Brooke thanked him and thought it unnecessary to tell him that Wilson Stone had thoughtfully given her a week's holiday when it seemed there was no end in sight from the intense heat. And though New Hampshire would tend to intensify dormant memories it was, she thought, her only escape from hot sidewalks and sleepless nights.

They stopped in Boston for a belated lunch, both looked tired and disheveled. Julian knew now that she had a week's holiday, for when he remarked upon the size of her bag for a week end visit to Chatham, she had told him early that morning as they stood outside her hotel. Engrossed in summer scenes and their own thoughts, they had spoken little for several hours. Julian keeping his eyes ahead on a road crowded with the usual summer motorists lured north.

Over a green tablecloth in a cool dim place he folded his hands and looked at her.

"If you aren't going to be busy the whole week, we might manage a swim together."

"It cools me to think about it."

He smiled. "Your first summer in New York. Pretty trying. I know. I remember mine. I was just out of Harvard and looking for a job and too proud to ask my father for help. He's retired now and living in California with his third wife, a musician."

"Little by little I put you together," Brooke said.

He chuckled. "Jigsaw puzzle of a human being? Have you assembled all of me?"

"Not quite."

He glanced away quickly across the room to a waiter hurrying toward them with their lunch.

* * *

It was midafternoon when he turned the car down the familiar street shaded by tall trees and stopped at the big old house which Brooke indicated.

"Are you expected?" he asked.

The windows were closed, the blinds drawn.

"It doesn't look as if I am. I wired but I didn't receive an answer. But I still have a key."

He turned to her. "If they aren't there, why stay? Come up to Maine and swim with me every day."

"I'll go in. Perhaps there's a message. My father usually doesn't take his vacation until October and then never goes anywhere."

"I'll go in with you."

She noticed that the porch, with a new coat of grey paint, was dusty. Taking her key, opening the door, she stepped into the gloomy hall. She saw her name instantly on a white envelope on the hall table. Opening it quickly she read her stepmother's note that she and "your father" had motored to Canada for a few days, taking her sisters. She had left food for Brooke in the icebox, she wrote, and would see her on Monday and regretted that their plans for the brief holiday had been made far in advance of Brooke's telegram.

Rather than explain, she passed the note to Julian.

"Then you are coming with me," he said.

She followed him out of the house.

* * *

"There's a small hotel not far from my sister's house," he said, starting the car. "All available space there is needed for the five children. Otherwise, she'd be delighted to have you." He glanced at her closely. "You're angry, aren't you?"

"I shouldn't be but I am." She wanted to say, "I can't afford a week-end at a hotel but I'll go anyway."

"May I remind you that I've had two stepmothers? But the last has proved to me that they can be very unselfish people. If we hurry, we can get a swim in before dinner. That is, if you can take it cold and have a bathing suit with you."

"I have mine with me."

But Helen's snub and her father's neglect still burned in her for many miles to come. Why did she bother to come home at all? Loyalty, of course, and the feeling of being a part of the taciturn man who was dominated by his second wife. Emotional conflicts . . . She had been in the midst of so many recently. . . .

* * *

Several thickly peopled resorts were passed before Julian brought the car to a standstill before a huge white cottage. A bridge game was in session on the veranda, a tennis game on the court beside the cottage. Sunburned children in bathing suits played on the wide lawn.

Hurrying, she took scant notice of the room other than to revel in the cool sea air. Adjusting the strap of the slim blue satin suit, she thought, "This is much better than home. I'm glad it happened this way."

* * *

They swam out beyond the breaking surf and timid bathers. Brooke feeling that even in sport Julian challenged her. Coming back they lay on the beach in the sun.

"You're having dinner with us, with Wilma and me," he said, closing his eyes against the glare. Then, opening them, looking up at the clear sky, "Thou out of Heaven's benediction comest to the warm sun. . . ."

"Shakespeare has many meanings," Brooke said. "What does that mean to you."

"I was thinking of you. And I said that you were having dinner with Wilma and me. . . ."

"The quotation is from 'King Lear,' I think. But need you be so severe with me? I shall be delighted to have dinner with you."

Closing his eyes again, shutting her out, "The five little demons will be in bed by then. Wilma is quite concerned that she can't put you up. I'm glad."

The unexpected again. "Why?"

"You and I shouldn't get to know each other too well."

THE NAME PAYS

Oiler Named Roosevelt Finds Coincidence Helpful.

BOSTON—(AP)—James A. Roosevelt, oiler on a motorship, says that bearing the name of the president's eldest son has its advantages.

He said he frequently is given special privileges in South American countries by officials who mistake him for the son of the president.

THEATERS

Mystery House.

The strange and fascinating old house at Salem, Mass., which inspired Nathaniel Hawthorne's mystery novel, "The House of Seven Gables," was recreated for the movie version of the story. The house, with its seven gables and dark, secret stairways, is now a tourist house. It is furnished much as it was in the days when the Pyncheon family lived under the curse of the original owner who had been hung for witchcraft. The picture, together with "Light of Western Stars," will be shown at the Madison through Friday.

* * *

"Florian" at Ohio.

"Florian," like "Stanley and Livingston" is the story of a newspaper man's assignment to find a lost person. The story, which has been made into a movie and is being shown at the Ohio, was written by the reporter of a Vienna paper after he had spent months trying to find the lost Duchess of Coburg and her riding master lover with whom she had eloped. The movie version deals largely with the lover's search for a famous stallion named Florian.

* * *

O'Brien as Westerner.

Zane Grey's story of "Thunder Mountain" is the main attraction at the Park theater for three days, starting tomorrow. George O'Brien plays the role of the westerner who locates the great gold lode in Idaho, while Barbara Fritchie is seen as the faithless beauty who spurs him on for her own selfish reasons. "Death of a Champion," the second feature, is a murder mystery.

* * *

Two Revivals Shown.

The two features at the Ritz are revivals of pictures made several years ago. One is "The Murder Man" with Spencer Tracy in one of his earlier roles, and supported by Virginia Bruce; and the second is "Battle of Broadway" with Victor McLaglen and Brian Dunlevy, which was filmed while the American Legion held its national convention in New York City.

* * *

Newspaper Yarn Remade.

"His Girl Friday" will be recognized, despite the change in sex, as the sensational stage play "Front Page." In this second movie version, the reporter is a girl played by Rosalind Russell, with Cary Grant in the role of the hard boiled city editor—and her husband. Sharing honors at the Majestic with this newspaper story is "Balalaika" with Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey.

ALABAMA LIKES BRIDES AT 18

MONTGOMERY, Ala.— (U.P.) — Eighteen is the most popular marrying age for girls in Alabama.

Nearly one-fourth of the state's total of 30,339 brides in 1938 were 18 years old, a survey by the state health department discloses. A total of 7,097 were only 18 years old.

More than 50 per cent of the total, too, were under 21. There were 15,788 who gave ages as between 13 and 20.

REPORT HITS DISCIPLINE IN BOYS' SCHOOL

Lancaster System Prior to Jan. 15 Compared to Middle Ages.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Discipline at the boys' industrial school prior to last Jan. 15 was described as "reminiscent of the middle ages" today in the sharply critical 'report of an investigating committee.

The committee said the system was "backward-looking," and "completely repressive" and prescribed "fantastically severe" punishment.

For example, "spanking" was the penalty for talking at the meal table; 10 days were added to sentences of boys who failed to say prayers, while those who escaped and returned voluntarily received an extra year.

The investigators, however, pointed out that their survey did not reflect conditions since Harold L. Hays became superintendent of the Lancaster institution, which houses more than 800 boys from 10 to 20 years old.

The survey was made by Dr. T. C. Holy and Dr. Gerald B. Stahly of the Ohio State university bureau of educational research in conjunction with child welfare agencies and the American Legion.

Changes in practically all phases of institution operation were recommended in a 362-page report to State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood.

The report suggested that juvenile courts send delinquent boys to the bureau of juvenile research for an indefinite period instead of to the industrial school; that older boys, particularly those who have been in the school, be considered for commitment to the State reformatory; that length of sentences be based on needs of the particular boy, and that broad changes be made in the institution's educational and recreational programs.

The committee said that numerous changes already had been made at the industrial school since Hays, former head of the Xenia Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans' home, became superintendent. He replaced A. R. Harsh, who resigned after nearly 30 years of service.

John Roosevelts Have Child Born Today at Boston

BOSTON — (INS) — Ann Clark Roosevelt, wife of John Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, today gave birth to a son at Boston Lying-In hospital.

The baby weighed 7 pounds, 9 ounces.

Both mother and child are doing well, according to attending physician Dr. Charles G. Shedd.

Name of the baby will be Haven Roosevelt.

Mrs. Roosevelt's mother is the former Mrs. F. Haven Clark, now Mrs. Lloyd J. Wiltse.

The Roosevelts live in Winchester, where young Roosevelt is assistant manager of a Boston department store branch.

There marriage June 18, 1938, was the biggest social event of the season.

Piller was going down No. 5 fairway carrying the bag when Cliff Heaton, 171 Vennum avenue, stepped up on the tee to drive. Heaton's drive soared toward Piller, struck the bottom of the bag and went straight through. Piller, incidentally, had to carry the clubs the rest of the way around the course.

The honor of becoming the first Boy Scouts in the Johnny Appleseed area ever to receive 51 merit badges went to two Shelby brothers, Tom and Robert Sutter, at an area court of honor in the Elks home last night. Both are Eagle Scouts, and each was presented a Silver-Silver palm for earning 30 merit badges over the 21 required for advancement to the Eagle rank. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sutter, and their father is chairman of the Shelby Boy Scout district, and has been associated with the Boy Scout movement there for the past seven years. Pictures of the boys can be seen on Page 1(of today's News-Journal.

Explanations were in order by a Mansfield husband a few days ago when his wife found a girl's photograph, clipped neatly from The News-Journal lying on the floor. Circumstantial evidence was against him when the wife broached him on the subject of the why the clipping, until he remembered that only a few nights before he had clipped an article from the paper and part of it, containing the photo, fell to the floor. He's still trying to convince the lady of the house that it was all an accident.

Mansfield's most enthusiastic fisherman probably is the oldest one. Charles Ackerman, president of the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, who is pulling in the pickrel from the lakes around Loring, Ontario, was 82 years old his last birthday. One of the first of the season's migratory anglers, he probably will be among the latest in the season. This is merely his first trip this year. He usually makes the Canadian trip again July and then again late in the fall. His companions this time are Sherman Wentz, manager of the Mansfield Saving's branch bank in Lexington, David Wentz and Jack Berger of the Auto club.

DEATH CLAIMS J. A. NICHOLS, 61

Mansfield Tire Purchasing Agent Succumbs After Lingering Illness.

J. Arthur Nichols, 61, of 38 Western avenue, purchasing agent for the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, died early today at General hospital after a lingering illness.

Mr. Nichols was connected with the Mansfield Tire company for 16 years as purchasing agent, and for a number of years prior to that he was purchasing agent for the old Altman Taylor company here.

He was born in Mansfield Aug. 18, 1:.8 and was a Spanish-American war veteran. He was a member of the Mansfield Lodge F. and A. M., Mansfield Royal council and Select Master, Mansfield Commandary No. 21, Knights Templars, Dayton Consistery and Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Al Koran Temple of Cleveland. He was a past commander of Mansfield Commandary.

Surviving is his wife, Cora Nichols.

The body was removed to the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in charge of Rev. David N. Roller of First Presbyterian church, and the officers of Mansfield Commandary. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

BERLE QUITS LEGAL GUILD

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle today resigned his membership in the National Lawyers Guild, charging that under its present leadership it was not "prepared to take any stand which conflicts with the Communist party line."

Berle's resignation from the Guild followed shortly those of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and Nathan Margold, solicitor of the interior department. It was understood that a number of other liberal attorneys in the government service plan to follow the same course.

They strongly objected, it was said, to the Guild's practice of adopting resolutions affecting foreign affairs, which nearly always followed the Communist party lines.

FATALITIES FALL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A drop in Ohio highway fatalities last month to 36, 11 below May, 1939, was attributed today to state highway patrol vigilance and interest in an all-Ohio traffic safety contest. It was the first time this year traffic deaths fell below the corresponding month last year.

HUNTER ELECTED COUNCILMAN TO COMPLETE TERM OF SMITH

Lester D. Hunter, former Fourth Ward councilman, was elected by city council last night to fill the unexpired term of the late Philip Smith, councilman-at-large, accidentally killed last month.

Hunter, a Democrat, was chosen by a vote of 5 to 3 over A. B. Endly, former Third Ward councilman, who was backed by council's Republican minority.

The election was held at last night's meeting of council after the Mansfield Building Trades council had submitted its endorsement to a labor candidate.

A petition recommending Howard D. Myers, 256 South Main street, a plumber, was received and ordered filed, without comment.

Hunter returns to council after an absence of five months. He relinquished his Fourth Ward office Jan. 1 to Jacob Kutshall, who defeated him for the Democratic nomination in the primary last August. He served in council two terms.

By virtue of his election he was placed on three committees on which Smith served. He will assume the chairmanship of the newly created traffic committee and also will be a member of the sewer and parks committees.

O. S. R. Inmate Hops Freight Train to Escape.

Warm weather and the urge to travel apparently got the best of an Ohio State reformatory trusty who was working in a field beside the railroad at the institution farm yesterday afternoon.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said Charles Phoenix, 24, Montgomery county was missing shortly after a freight train passed through the institution grounds.

Phoenix was sentenced in April 1938 to serve 10 to 25 years on a charge of robbery.

PUTS $10,000 PROPOSAL UP TO OHIO OFFICIALS

Action Taken After State Aeronautics Director Makes Plea for Approval.

Construction of a $10,000 roadside park at Mansfield's municipal airport was placed in the hands of the state highway department today.

City council last night cleared the way for the improvement by granting the state a 10-year easement on a three-acre tract along the route 13 frontage of the airfield.

Unanimous action was taken on the measure after council heard pleas from State Director of Aeronautics Earl J. Johnson and Perry Cook of the Junior Association of Commerce.

They were part of a delegation of aviation enthusiasts, including Chamber of Commerce representatives and officials of the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautics association which attended the meeting.

Terming airports as the "backbone of a new type of transportation," Johnson urged council members to give consideration to any proposals dealing wth the development of the airfield.

"If new industry is to be attracted to Mansfield your municipal airport must be something more than just a place to fly," he added. "Industry today will not locate in a city where there are no air facilities."

Already Surveyed.

"Mansfield's airport is so located that the government wants it improved and is willing to assist in the development," Johnson asserted, pointing out that Civil Aeronautics authority officials last year had surveyed the field for the purpose of proposing its development.

He added that the city is geographically situated for the location of airplane manufacturing and that proper airfield facilities would mean the establishment of airmail and passenger service for the city.

J. A. C. representatives asked council to back development of the airport in view of the government's proposal to establish military pilot training and expand its civilian pilot training program.

Councilman George Kyle suggested to the group that they extend their efforts to obtain airmail service for Mansfield.

WAIT IN JAIL

8 Won't Have Cases Probed Until August Jury Meets.

Eight persons awaiting grand jury action probably will spend the remainder of June and all of July in county jail, as the next panel will not be called before Aug. 1, Prosecutor G. W. Marriott said today.

Because only eight cases are on the docket now, it has been decided to postpone calling a grand jury until the middle of the summer, Marriott said.

Awaiting a hearing before the grand jury are Clifford Nixon, Maynard Stover and Fred DeWeese, all of Mansfield, and all held on non-support charges; Clarence Ruckman and Charles Ruckman, Shelby brothers, charged with receiving stolen property; Jesse Barth, Mansfield, breaking and entering; and Virginia Pohl and Dick Eby of Marion, held on forgery charges.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. ELMORE, 38

Crestline Mother of 4 Succumbs After Short Illness.

CRESTLINE—Mrs. Elva Potter Elmore, 38, died at 7 a. m. today at the Emergency hospital here, following a two weeks illness of pneumonia. She was born June 1, 1901 at Genesis, Tenn., the daughter of William and Sude Hamby Potter. She married William Elmore Sept. 7, 1919.

Surviving are her husband, four children, Mrs. Ruth Davis of Cripple Creek, Colo., Ray, Roy and Dorothy at home; her mother, Mrs. William Potter of Rockford, Tenn., and a sister, Mrs. Ethel Creason of Genesis, Tenn.

Funeral services are incomplete. The body was removed to the Orie Garverick funeral home.

RECORD QUAKES

Two Separate Shock Reported by Fordham Instruments.

NEW YOR —(INS)— Two separate and distinct earthquakes, both of "extremely severe" intensity, were recorded by the Fordham university seismograph early today.

The first shock occurred at 6:09 a. m. (EST), the second six minutes later. Locale of the tremblors was approximately 2,850 miles distant in a southerly or southwesterly direction.

Mrs. Wayne Morris leaves June 11 for California with her baby to try for a reconciliation. . . . Abe Reles, the gangster, will get the same kind of "break" the authorities gave Dixie Davis for his stool-pigeoning. Reles' testimony will result in jail sentences for ten of his former pals! . . .

Eddie Mannix, the M. G. M. vice-president, may make it a June aisle-waltz with Toni Lanier, his long-time sweetheart. . . .

General John J. Pershing's preparedness report has already been submitted to Washington and is being examined in great secrecy. . . .

Three fellow-inmates tried to give bundleader Fritz Kuhn a once-over-lightly in prison about a week ago, but the attack was nipped, and the jail officials hushed the story. . . . Nancy Kelly and Irving Cummings, jr., who almost eloped and didn't, are glad now that they've completely iced.

Abe Lyman, the bandleader, and Rose Blaine, his vocalist, are almost at the altar. . . . A. C. Blumenthal is in Mexico on one of the biggest deals of his career—oil!

That was some battle between two of Tommy Dorsey's lads—Frank Sinatra and Buddy Rich—in the musicians' room of the Astor Wednesday night. It was the blow-off of a long feud. . . . Buddy Hassett, of the Boston Bees, and Veronica Mackin, a Jersey City beauty, are betrothed. . . .

Belmont will see its greatest celebrity turnout in the history of the track on Thursday, when Al Vanderbilt lures big names of society, stage and Hollywood to participate in War Relief day—all receipts to be turned over to the American Red Cross. . . .

Dorothy Lamour has been asking friends to long-distance Herbie Kaye, her former husband, and ask him how he "really feels" about her. So far the reports are discouraging.

* * *

Jean Parker, the most movie magazined girl in films, and Douglas Dawson, a California socialite, are yum, yum. . . . Betty Grable cancelled her scheduled personal appearance tour—at $2,500 a week—because she's so fatigued.

Manhattan's waterfront anticipates more labor trouble—the seamen vs. the unions. . . . Adele Murphy of "Streets of Paris" and Frank Hamilton, her beau, have been secretly married since last November.

Eugene O'Neill has five finished plays on his desk in California, all ready for Broadway in the Fall. . . . Bob Hope is hitting the box office jackpot at Loew's State this week—he'll break Eddie Cantor's record by $4,000.

* * *

Bob Benchley blew into town especially to meet his new grandchild. Jock Whitney has named one of his horses "Gramps" in Benchley's honor. . . . Gypsy Rose Lee and Abbott and Costello are staging a magnificent row. Gypsy may walk out. . . . The Meyer Hutniers, of the drama pages, will lullaby in November.

Puk Paaris, the golden-haired model, has migrated from the front pages to the Club Gaucho, where Pedro Valli is teaching her to rumba. . . . Paulette Goddard's mother is now Mrs. W. S. Fleming.

Joe E. Brown's offspring, Don, is courting Mary Beth Hughes, a film youngster. . . . Lewis Meltzer and his wife (he's Columbia's top scripter) are calling it a day.

* * *

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's the war. . . . The box-office dived while America watched the front page and listened during the grim days. Hollywood couldn't get sore as Hollywood usually does when America stays out of the theaters, because Hollywood was watching and listening, too. There was talk of little else.

But Hollywood kept on making pictures, attending previews, giving parties. It kept on making pictures, even though most of the drama on the sound stages looked tame. There was little that was relevant, and there were few links with reality—the reality of world tragedy—on the stages.

You found it some places. On the set of "Foreign Correspondent," the script of which was rewritten half a dozen times before shooting in order to keep pace with foreign developments since Vincent Sheean's "Personal History" days, the final version was gyving perfectly with the headlines. The day of the Nazi invasion of Holland, Walter Wanger received 14,000 feet of background film recently shot in Amsterdam—probably the last movie record of that city as it was. And Wanger's other production, John Ford's "The Long Voyage Home," was grimly suggestive: a munitions boat approaching England, subjected to enemy air-bombing.

* * *

"ESCAPE," the Norma Shearer vehicle, was in line, and "Four Sons" and the completed "Mortal Storm." There was current fascination in "I Married a Nazi," the story of a girl who did. I saw no war, except of the domestic type, on the set. The American wife (Joan Bennett) and Nazi husband (Francis Lederer) were quarreling over the Nazi girl Frieda (Anna Sten). Miss Sten, back on the screen after long absence, plays a Hitler fan, and Miss Bennett is reciting an improved limerick to taunt husband Lederer. It's about a "young Nordic named Frieda, always quoting the words of the leader."

Lederer, one of the "Nazi spies" of the film "Confessions" of same, returns to pictures after a season in "No Time for Comedy." His is a different Nazi type this time, he says. Once upon a time Lederer was leader of a world peace movement—remember?

Lederer had "No Time for Comedy" but Hollywood has plenty, for all the war talk. Comedy is what we need now. That is what Hollywood said when the war started, and the screen is keeping its word with "The Boys from Syracuse," "Dancing on a Dime," "The Villain Still Pursued Her," "My Favorite Wife," "Turnabout," "Rhythm on the River," "The Doctor Takes a Wife," "No Time for Comedy," "Too Many Girls," and so on.

* * *

BUT there is "Victory" (Fredric March-Betty Field) which is very close to the news, although its period is 1010. The Joseph Conrad romance is set in the Netherlands East Indies, cynosure of international eyes since the invasion of Holland. So the "war" is there, even though its set is one of tropical peace.

ROTARIANS TOLD OF PROGRESS IN PILOT TRAINING

Progress in civilian aviation provided material for an interesting talk given at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club by J. R. (Bud) Harrington, manager of the Mansfield airport and CAA inspector.

Mentioning the three branches of aviation: Military, commercial air lines, and civilian aviation, Harrington devoted attention to the last of these as the one most likely to bring increasing public interest in flying as a means of individual transportation.

The importance of proper training of pilots was stressed by Harrington, who said that a person who is expert in piloting his own ship may be a poor instructor and asserted that a large percentage of accidents are due to improper instruction, ignorance of the student, or violation of safety regulations.

Steps toward further standardizing of methods of instruction are being taken by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, it was revealed, and tests for instructors are being made more rigid

"With the right kind of training, and a willingness to comply with all regulations," said Harrington, "piloting a plane is safer than driving a car, under present traffic conditions."

Ruhland Isaly was program chairman of the meeting. A short talk on the work being done by the Mansfield dental clinic was given by Mrs. Robert D. Evans.

Next Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club is to be a ladies' night party at Westbrook Country club, for which Richard Fishback is to be program chairman.

WAR 'HONORS'

Japs Erect Monuments for Chinese Dead, Suggest Co-operation.

PEIPING, North China — (AP) — At the suggestion of Prince Chichibu, brother of the Japanese Emporer, war monuments for Chinese war dead will be created side by side with those for Japanese soldiers killed in China, Japanese officials said.

Such monuments will be raised in 25 cities throughout the occupied areas, where Japanese-sponsored Chinese regimes have been asked to "co-operate" in financing the project

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up". Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

RIVER SNAGS HINDER MAIL DELIVERIES

Letter Carrier's Motorboat Sputter's Over 34-Mile Tennessee Route.

DENSON'S LANDING, Tenn. —(U.P.)—The man who brings the mail to Denson's Landing is bothered by neither snow nor rain nor heat nor night, but he does worrry about mud flats and snags.

The famed slogan of the postoffice department fails to take into account the problems facing A. F. Crockett, who daily sputters up to the pier in a rickety motorboat at the end of his 34-mile route along the Tennessee river.

Star route No. 27,100 is one of the few remaining water routes in the country. Crockett gets $1,800 yearly for making the deliveries (except on Sundays and holidays) and has to furnish boat, fuel and crew. His crew is John Matthews, son of a Negro slave and native of the river banks.

Each day about noon, depending upon the condition of the river, the Virginia B. pulls into Denson's Landing and John carries the single bag of mail to the postoffice. He returns with the outgoing mail and within a few minutes the boat is on its way back to its Johnsonville base.

On its way up the river it calls at Sycamore, Cuba and Daniel's Landing.

Denson's Landing is only 15 miles from Linden, the county seat, but it takes mail as long as three days to get here. It is taken to Nashville, then sent to Johnsonville to be brought down by the Virginia B. Once safe in town it is delivered by Postmaster Hugh M. Haynes and O. B. DePriest, who carries the single rural route.

But the future looks dark for the mail boat. A reservoir is being built which will force construction of new highways, one of which is intended to come to Denson's Landing. If that happens the mail will come in trucks from larger centers, and the postoffice itself may be abandoned.

But the Virginia B. doesn't worry about that. She keeps plugging along up and down the river, dodging snags as well as she can. She lives up to the spirit of the postoffice's slogan, even though the circumstances are different.

AUTHORIZE TROY WEED MOWING

Commissioners Order Force Account Action as Bidder Declines.

County commissioners today had authorized mowing of weeds along Troy township roads by force account after Chester Morgan, who had been awarded the mowing contract, declined it.

The county road department will handle the mowing at a cost not to exceed $308.75, under the commissioners' order.

Fort Worth, Texas, was founded in 1849 as an army post to protect settlers from Indians.

DOYLE BROTHERS

475 SHERMAN PLACE — MANSFIELD, OHIO

Excepting Hermits

HERMITS are people who think two's a crowd.

They live in caves or huts, wear long gray beards and eat everything from berries to nuts. They don't, as a rule, buy anything.

Self-respecting hermits spend most of their time meditating, contemplating and talking to themselves. Their minds are hermit-ically sealed to anything going on in the world. In fact, what really puts hermits in a class by themselves is that they don't care a hang about the news.

But for everyone excepting hermits, news is a vital necessity of everyday life. Since the day Eve told Adam about the apple, news has been the leading topic of conversation all day long.

And today the craving for the news is stronger than ever before . . . because never before has the individual's welfare and happiness been so intimately affected by events at home and abroad.

That's why your daily newspapers draw a larger and more intensely interested audience . . . day after day . . . than any other medium. And that, in turn, is the fundamental reason why your advertising in newspapers inevitably hits harder, works faster and brings more immediate results.
